causes of the dispute and the claims of the disputants.

Steam schooner operators, representing 20 lines owning 75 ships, went into conference with Masters, Mates & Pilots' association, planned meetings later with the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association and the American Radio Telegraphists' association.

The reported tentative agreements reached early today with the Sailors' union, Marine Firemen, Oilers, Waterenders & Wipers' association and Marine Cooks and Stewards' association were subject to ratification by the unions.

Wage Increases
They were reported to carry wage increases, preferential employment, hiring halls and increased overtime pay. For the sailors, wages were upped from $70 monthly to $80 with overtime pay fixed at 80 cents an hour, Harry Lundberg, sailors' union secretary, said.

Harry Bridges, district International Longshoremen's association president, said today: "If the shipowners don't come across with our demands by 9 p. m. tonight, the Pacific coast unions definitely will strike at midnight."

SAN PEDRO READY FOR LONG STRIKE

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 29. — (UP)—San Pedro locals of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific today disclosed they were prepared for a long strike in event negotiations for improved working conditions failed at San Francisco.

"The marine unions of San Pedro are prepared for the strike—financially and otherwise," C. H. Jordan, secretary of the San Pedro council of the federation, declared.

The local has obtained quarters where as many as 3000 men can be fed at one sitting, he said. Picketing committees are ready for action, it was learned, and would surround ships in the harbor here as soon as word was received that the strike had been called.

Police also were prepared for the strike, should it be called, Police Chief James E. Davis of Los Angeles disclosed.

Two ships were tied up in the harbor after crew walkouts. Unlicensed seamen on the Hamilton P. McCormick walked off the ship at midnight a few minutes before the scheduled sailing for San Diego. The Matson freighter Mapele remained tied up.

ATLANTIC SEAMEN PLAN SYMPATHY WALKOUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(UP)—A "general strike of seamen in Atlantic ports," in sympathy with Pacific coast maritime workers, was authorized for today by the Seamen's defense committee.

After a strike vote taken last night at a mass meeting of 1000 sailors, the committee began organizing sit-down strikes and picketing of all boats to start when word of a Pacific coast strike is received.

ASKS DISMISSAL OF 2 COUNTS IN TRIAL

Counsel for W. K. Murphy, San Bernardino refrigeration dealer charged with defrauding George Ward, Long Beach engineer who purchased ice machine parts from Murphy, today made a vigorous effort to win dismissal of the two counts, grand theft of $550 and issuing a fraudulent check of $450.

Arguing that the state could not legally prosecute two offenses based upon the same set of facts and circumstances, Defense Attorney R. G. Gilchrist urged Superior Judge G. K. Scovel to dismiss the information. Gilchrist contended that, in any event, the fraudulent check charge should be eliminated.

The court, commenting that Gilchrist might be correct in his position, temporarily denied the motion to dismiss, but gave the defense leave to renew its motion later, or move for a directed verdict at the conclusion of the trial.

The state rested its case this morning, having called Ward, his associate, David Pierson, W. W. Withee and F. A. Schelline as witnesses. The defense called Evan Jones, architect, as its first witness.

The state charges that Murphy failed to deliver ice machine parts to Ward, after accepting his $1000 check, and giving him a worthless check for $450 in "change."

STRIKE PLAN REJECTED

SEATTLE, Oct. 29.—(UP)—An American Federation of Labor proposal to end the Seattle Post-Intelligencer reporters' strike was rejected today by H. R. Seller, American Newspaper Guild strike committee chairman.

"The executive committee of the A. F. of L. has been misled by false and fraudulent statements of the Hearst management regarding the situation in Seattle," Seller said.

The plan stipulated that strikers would be taken back by the paper within 96 hours after the settlement was made; the council would take the P-I off the unfair list; the paper would resume publication within 72 hours, and collective bargaining would be provided.

101 Year Old Woman To Vote Tuesday

Mrs. Julia A. Goss, 173 North Pine street, Orange, who will be 101 years of age in December, will be the oldest voter in Orange county November 3.

She can't get to the polls, she will vote anyway. Her application for an absent voter ballot was received today by County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Tonight is the deadline for obtaining absent-voter ballots, Backs stated. Already more than 1200 such ballots have been furnished by Backs, breaking all previous records.

REPORTS ATTEMPT MADE TO ASSAULT

On the way home from an Orange theater about 10:30 last night, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Rosa Peralta, pretty 30-year-old Mexican widow and mother of four young children, was the victim of an attempted attack as a youthful Mexican man jumped from behind a tree near the Peralta home, 143 North Cypress, Orange, and placed a knife against her back.

Screaming, Mrs. Peralta, with her sister, Miss Enedina Placencia, about 18, ran to her home and collapsed. Today she was confined to her bed with a heart attack which followed the attempted assault. She could not give Orange police any reason why the man threatened her with the knife, claiming he did not speak but "only pushed the knife against my back."

Mrs. Peralta declared she and her sister noticed the man following them as they walked toward home. Apparently, she declared, he had run through an alley near their home, arriving at the tree before they did, and hiding. As the women ran into their home, the man disappeared in the opposite direction. He was described as wearing a "rough-neck" sweater which he had pulled high about his neck and a dark hat which he had pulled down over his eyes. He was being sought today by Orange police.

At request of A. W. Leichtfuss, Buena Park, who wants to locate Mrs. Martha De Graff, city police yesterday afternoon contacted R. A. Clyde, 122 Orange avenue, an acquaintance of hers. Clyde declared he had not seen Mrs. De Graff for several months and could give no suggestion as to where she might be found.

The tall, slender man, wearing a dark suit, and described as a prowler, had fled when Officers W. E. B. Sherwood and Ed Lentz went to Bishop and Broadway at request of A. H. Larrabee, 615 South Broadway, to investigate.

Mrs. R. H. Gaines, 934 West Pine, reported several youths playing ball in the street in the 900-block of West Pine yesterday afternoon. Officer W. H. Heard, investigating, declared the youths had gone to the school grounds to play, when he arrived.

A prowler at Lathrop school, 1120 South Main, disappeared before Officer George Boyd arrived to investigate last night. Police were informed the man was looking into the school windows.

Mrs. J. M. Shane, 617 East Sixth, complained last night that a motorist parked his car in front of her home with the engine running. When Officers W. B. Moreland and Ralph Pantuso dashed to the place to investigate, they found the man and his car gone.

Pleading guilty to charges of speeding, Charles A. Van Dusen, San Diego; C. Pharris, 424 South Grand, Orange, and G. A. Jehn, Route 3, Box 350, Santa Ana, were fined $6 each in city court yesterday. Mrs. Edith Russell, Route 4, Santa Ana, was fined $5 after pleading guilty to driving her car over a fire hose.

Reporting someone stole her $45 evening gown from her home on Ball road, west of Euclid, three weeks ago, Mrs. J. F. Fluor, Route 1, Box 54, Anaheim, yesterday gained repossession of the garment with assistance of sheriff's officers. She gave the officers a "tip" as to whereabouts of the gown. It had been taken by a young Mexican girl, a former employee of Mrs. Fluor, officers reported.

Sheriff's officers today were still looking for two hiders, a Holstein and a Guernsey, branded on the right hip with the letter "G," reported by W. S. Marks as missing from his pasture lands two miles east of El Toro, for the past two months. The hiders belong to Otto Plagman of Downey, Marks said.

Arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff John Ryan at his residence, 818-1/2 East Pine, Santa Ana, John Feliz, 47, entered Santa Ana justice court this morning and pleaded not guilty to a charge of failing to support his minor children. Trial was set for November 4 at 9 a. m. Mrs. Feliz filed the complaint against her husband. Bail was set at $500.

Caleb H. Rash, street department foreman, reported an abandoned Model "T" touring car on Polinsettia and Seventeenth yesterday, but the owner, Byron Nott, 531 E. Seventeenth street, told police he would remove the auto. Officer B. A. Hershey investigated.

Dionisio Medina, 38, Fullerton, and Belen Gutierrez, 55, Los Angeles, were sentenced to jail terms yesterday by Judge Charles Kuchel, Anaheim justice court, on charges of drunk driving and vagrancy, respectively.

Medina began serving a 50-day jail term yesterday on the drunk driving count, and Gutierrez began a sentence of 12 and a half days for vagrancy, according to police reports. Officers James A. Bouldin and Marcus Andrade, of the Anaheim police department, made the arrests.

LIONS OF S. A. HEAR TALK BY PROF. QUANTON

"Neutrality legislation may not be a guarantee of peace, but in as much as it has never been tried before, it is my opinion that the experiment would be very much worth while."

This, in brief, is the conclusion reached by Prof. C. E. Quanton, University of Washington, who today addressed the Santa Ana Lions club at the organization's noon meeting at Green Cat cafe. Prof. Quanton, in his address, compared conditions as they exist today with those in existence immediately prior to the "war to end wars" of 1914.

"In 1914," Prof. Quanton said, "there was an armament race between the various European countries. They were armed to the teeth, however, as a result of the war, they learned that heavy armament is not an insurance against war. Today, the European countries are arming on an even larger scale than was in existence in 1914; their armies are better equipped; they are more scientific and more efficient than ever before."

"Conditions similar to those of 1914 are being reproduced on every hand. Hatreds and bitterness are even more apparent today than they were then. The League of Nations, obviously powerless to prevent invasion, is definitely not the solution for the problem."

"Everything else has been tried, so why not neutrality legislation. In order to make such legislation effective, it is imperative that the laws passed be absolutely mandatory. The question is, will business be willing to make the necessary sacrifices to insure the success of such legislation."

COMMUNIST ASKS FOR INJUNCTION

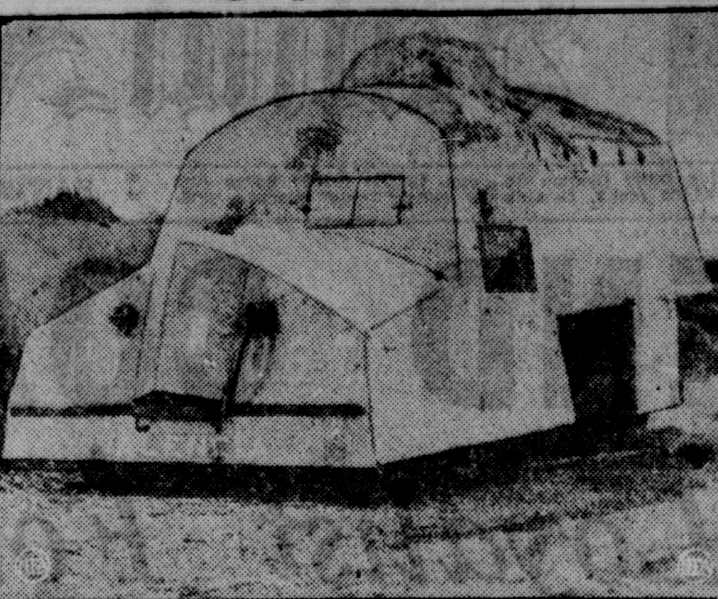

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—(UP)—Attempting to return and speak at El Centro where he was beaten and run out of town last week, Eaco Richardson today demanded federal court action against 30 Imperial valley citizens and officials.

Richardson asked that F. M. Bowles, manager of El Centro radio station KKO be forced to grant him and Emma Cutler, another Communist candidate for congress, time for a broadcast before November 3.

An injunction was sought restraining Imperial valley authorities and so-called "vigilantes" from interfering with the Communists' trip to the valley to speak.

The court also was asked to restrain Imperial valley authorities from prosecuting workers on "trumped up charges."

Answering Spain's Call to Arms

As rebel forces hammered at the gates of Madrid, outlying Spanish provinces still held by government forces rushed reinforcements to the defense of the capital city. From Valencia came this cumbersome armored car to bolster the government's other mechanized units. The car is pictured as it rumbled along a country road en route to Madrid.

QUIZ ON POSTERS SOUGHT BY BOARD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(UP)—A request by the Social Security board that the department of justice investigate the source of "fraudulent" posters today climaxed a bitter partisan fight over the Social Security act.

The board announced it had "brought to the attention of the justice department" posters tacked up in places of employment in at least six states indicating the board had ordered wage reductions.

"No regulations dealing with wage reductions have been published by the Social Security board," an official announcement said. "No instructions to employers to post such notices have been issued by the Social Security board."

Marsella, in a letter to Robert Sibley, Berkeley executive manager of the alumni association, protested the situation which he believes threatens the time honored identity of his alma mater.

"Our state university at Berkeley is losing its entity," the letter said. "The Los Angeles branch has stolen our name, colors, traditions and reputations, and now it even has taken our president."

Marsella referred to the action of Robert Gordon Sproul, president of both institutions, moving from Berkeley to Westwood.

ALUMNI LEADER ATTACKS U. C. L. A.

FRESNO, Oct. 29.—(UP)—Al E. Marsella, president of the San Joaquin chapter of the University of California Alumni association, today instituted a revolt against the influence and dominance of the U.C.L.A. group on the administration, policies, traditions and of the University of California.

Marsella, in a letter to Robert Sibley, Berkeley executive manager of the alumni association, protested the situation which he believes threatens the time honored identity of his alma mater.

"Our state university at Berkeley is losing its entity," the letter said. "The Los Angeles branch has stolen our name, colors, traditions and reputations, and now it even has taken our president."

Marsella referred to the action of Robert Gordon Sproul, president of both institutions, moving from Berkeley to Westwood.

DIGEST EDITOR HITS CHARGES

sume that the great majority of the more than 10,000,000 ballots mailed out this year went to voters who voted for Roosevelt in 1932. There was no possible way in which the Digest could have assured itself or the public that the returns would come back in the same proportion.

Landslide Forecast

"As for the implication of 'weighting'—63.7 per cent of the millions to whom ballots were mailed in 1932 were persons who indicated that they had voted Republican in 1928—a greater proportion than occurred this year. Yet the 1932 poll forecast the Roosevelt landslide—actually overestimated it by three-quarters of one per cent."

"By General Johnson's 'logic' the 1932 poll should have shown a heavy error in favor of Hoover (since only 53.8 of the actual major party vote in 1928 was Republican). Had General Johnson's 'arithmetic' been applied to the 1932 poll, the Digest would have been badly off, instead of 88.25 per cent right."

Two Trucks Burn With $1300 Loss

Two trucks, which caught fire at about the same time this afternoon—one at Costa Mesa, the other at Los Alamitos, resulted in destruction of five rooms of new furniture, valued at approximately $1000, and a truck cab, valued at approximately $300.

As William H. Aullanes, furniture dealer of 150 West Fort Street, Los Angeles, was driving along Newport road near Twenty-third street, about 2 o'clock, a passing motorist shouted to him his truck load of furniture was afire. He stopped but before officials of the state forestry department from Costa Mesa, could arrive, all of the furniture was destroyed. The fire fighters included John Powers, Ed Edick, Emil Greener and Elmer Rehmy. They saved the truck. Aullanes didn't know how the fire started.

The gasoline truck, belonging to Whippet Gasoline company, and carrying 1300 gallons of gasoline, caught fire through faulty wiring, burning the cab and wiring. Orange and Midway City fire trucks answered the call.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

In the fifth century a Chinese prophet taught that God's pre-eminent characteristic is love. With dire results, Confucianism fettered the imagination of this great people.

This experience should be a great lesson to your life. No matter how much you suffer or sorrow, refuse to toy with theories which eat out the heart of your trust in the abiding love of your Father. Hold him close that He may strengthen your hands, heal your wounds and cheer your spirit.

With Him beside you, you can face anything without quailing.

COUNTY WATER PROBLEMS TO BE DISCUSSED

Formation of a county-wide committee for the purpose of studying all phases of the county's water supply problem will be completed at a general meeting to be held November 23, at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the Intermediate District board of directors, the following county leaders are included in the group: Ted Craig, D. S. Smiley, secretary of the committee, John W. Crill, Ross Shafer and D. J. Dodge.

The county-wide group, including representatives from all water interests in the county, will be formed under direction of a committee of five, appointed recently at a joint meeting of the Orange County Coast Association and the Associated Chamber of Commerce. In addition to Warner, who also is a member of the Orange County Water District board of directors, the following county leaders are included in the group: Ted Craig, D. S. Smiley, secretary of the committee, John W. Crill, Ross Shafer and D. J. Dodge.

In calling the general meeting for organization of the county-wide group, Warner pointed out that his organization is not committed to any action, whether for or against additional Orange county membership in the Metropolitan Water District. "Its only function," he said, "is formation of a committee which will develop and disseminate the facts necessary to a unified and intelligent county opinion relative to the question of water supplies."

In suggesting the appointment of the county-wide committee both the Orange County Coast Association and the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County pointed out that the group, when organized, will be expected to study all phases of the county's water supply, in order that an intelligent conclusion can be drawn as to the amount of imported water needed, after all local supplies have been developed to their utmost; the areas where such need is indicated; and the cheapest, most equitable and feasible way of securing such additional supplies; in view of the fact that Directors of the Metropolitan Water District have proposed membership in that District for all or parts of Orange County, as a means of augmenting its water supplies; and because of the need of a thorough understanding of the burdens and obligations involved in such membership, as well as the amount, availability, cost and probable need of such Metropolitan Water District service.

SAN CLEMENTE BUILDING LAW IS UNDER FIRE

The "Spanish Village" ordinance of the city of San Clemente, requiring that all buildings in the town shall be of white stucco construction, with red tile roofs, was attacked in the courts as unconstitutional today, when the Capitol Company petitioned superior court for a writ of mandate, to force issuance of two building permits authorizing other types of construction.

Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel issued an alternative writ, returnable in court November 13, when the city is required to show cause why the Capitol Company's petition should not be granted.

The petition holds that the ordinance exceeds the police powers of the city, interferes with personal liberty and is therefore unconstitutional. It would require construction of a cost out of proportion to the cost of the land, the petition states.

The petitioner applied October 20 for permits to construct two dwellings of Monterey type, without the tile roofs. Building Inspector Clyde T. Chalk refused to grant them. Chalk, the city council, and the city, are named defendants.

TWO ARE HURT IN ACCIDENTS DURING NIGHT

Two persons, one of whom was rushed to St. Joseph hospital late last night in an ambulance, were injured in two automobile accidents reported on California highway patrol office files today.

Harley C. McCleery, 25, San Diego, walking across Coast highway at Broadway in Sunset Beach about 10:30 o'clock last night, bearing a five-gallon can of gasoline for his stalled automobile, was struck down and severely injured by a car operated by D. L. Robbins, 42, of Long Beach. The accident, which occurred in a fog, both men stating they did not see each other, injured McCleery's back. He was taken to the hospital in Dixon's ambulance.

Earlier last night, at Edinger near Bristol, cars operated by Alfred Shoemaker, 17, 1311 North Ross, and David Tremaine, 22, 925 French, clashed, with Tremaine receiving cuts about the right side of his face, according to Shoemaker's report to California highway officers.

POSTPONEMENT OF TRIAL IS ORDERED

At request of Max M. Solomon, 49, proprietor of the Pollyanna Apparel shop, 203 West Fourth, his jury trial on charges he violated the state law regulating hours of employment for women, was today postponed until November 12 at 9 a.m.

The trial was scheduled for today in Santa Ana justice court, before Judge Kenneth Morrison and a jury. Solomon, haled into city court yesterday on an illegal parking warrant of arrest, was to appear in justice court today to face the charge he employed six women in his shop on Saturday, October 2, for more than eight hours each. Yesterday, he paid $2 for the illegal parking and was released.

Today's postponement, it was reported, was the result of Atty. M. B. Wellington's absence from Santa Ana. Wellington, defending Solomon, was reported to be in Los Angeles on another court case.

Announcing the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12
for 1937

NEW LOW PRICES FROM $1090
(F. O. B. Detroit)

THIS new car, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12 for 1937, has a year's superb record behind it. But it is still years ahead of the times! It is not a new model. It is the car, refined and improved, that pioneered a new type of transportation. It looks into the future to give new value today!

• This year, more than ever, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is priced below its specifications. In modern design, 12-cylinder power, safety, interior roominess, comfort and convenience, it sets entirely new standards in this field. And as it breaks with tradition in value, so it breaks with tradition in design!

• No other car has the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR's beauty. And beauty, here, has a reason. Beneath the swift flowing streamlines of the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is a welded one-piece structure unique in the automotive world!

Why the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12 stands out

V-type 12-cylinder 110-horsepower engine. Body and frame in a single steel unit. Wheelbase 122 inches. Springbase 133 inches. Low center of gravity. Conventional running-board eliminated, allowing greater body width. A "front-seat" ride for every one. 14 to 18 miles per gallon. Built by Lincoln in the Lincoln plant. "Flowing" ride—a new rhythm of motoring. Wider range of body types.

Liberal terms through Authorized Universal Credit Company Finance Plans engine of the medium-price field. Its 110 horsepower is more than sufficient, because of the car's aero-dynamic design and light weight, to give performance new and stimulating.

14 to 18 Miles per Gallon

For all its size, for all its power, the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is running up amazing records on the road. Owners report 14 to 18 miles per gallon! Credit is due not to the engine's efficiency alone, but also to streamlining, and a high power-to-weight ratio.

• Talk with the neighbor who now owns a LINCOLN-ZEPHYR. Get his impressions. If joy in motoring means to you what it has meant to him... as thousands of letters tell us... then you need this car now!

Lincoln-Zephyr Shows "First Anniversary" Series

Smarter exterior appearance and pleasing improvements in interior treatment mark the "first anniversary" series of Lincoln-Zephyr motor cars for 1937, now being shown. These refinements are expected to substantially widen its appeal. The sedan is pictured above. Characteristic Lincoln-Zephyr body lines are retained. The car has a smart new frontal appearance. Lower left, the new instrument panel and grille. This is the most striking feature of the interior. The grille, reaching to the top of the transmission housing, is designed to screen installation of car radio and heater. Lower right shows the new luggage compartment.

It is reached through the rear deck hatch by swinging the spare tire and rack down out of the way.

DISMISS GRAND THEFT CHARGES

The case against Lewis W. Polley, 35, and A. H. Vanstone, 36, Los Angeles, and the case against Polley, alone, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court, as evidence of grand theft regarding alleged stock manipulations, was declared lacking.

Together, the men were accused on four counts of grand theft and violation of the corporate securities act, alleging they stole $1196 from Mrs. Alice Scheel, 1302 Spurgeon, Santa Ana, by "trading her out of" valuable stock in exchange for worthless stock. When Polley appeared for preliminary examination a week ago, with Vanstone, he was arrested on an additional complaint signed by Mrs. Anna B. Camp and alleging two felony offenses. But neither Mrs. Scheel nor Mrs. Camp could convince Judge Morrison their complaints were valid. Defended by Atty. Eugene T. McGann, Los Angeles, the men argued they sold valuable telephone company stock for the women but did no "trading." The men merely sold the stock for them, they argued, and used the money in repurchasing other stock—in the United Profit Sharing Corporation. Mrs. Camp alleged Polley's "offense" cost her $2300.

INSTITUTE OF EPWORTH BODY ENDS SESSION

Its second annual institute having concluded with splendid results, members of the Epworth League Alliance of Orange county today were looking forward to a bigger and better institute next year, as well as steady advancement meanwhile, in bringing thinking young people to practical consideration of the Christian attitude.

The second institute, which closed Tuesday at the First M. E. church here, reported the unusual attendance average of 88 in the various classes for the full week of the institute.

According to Miss Florence Ulrich, one of the Alliance leaders, the second institute surpassed the first in every way, and developed more enthusiasm in the work and aims of the organization.

The ten-point program that has already been adopted by 52 denominations in the United States, and is proving a success, was supported by the institute, and will be followed by the Epworth League Alliance, Miss Ulrich stated. The program, she explained, includes preparing young people for home life; deals with their part in solving the liquor question; the Christian attitude toward politics, economics and other questions. The Alliance includes young people of various county groups, and its purpose is to develop their thinking on the Christian attitude toward life. An additional purpose, Miss Ulrich said, is to inform the churches of the county that the young people are so thinking. Wainly White, of Fullerton, is president of the Alliance.

While preparing for next year's institute, the Alliance will sponsor visitations and seek to help the various groups proceed along their programmed way, said Miss Ulrich. Lamenting the loss of their pastoral advisor, the late Rev. Kemp Winkler, of Newport Beach, the Alliance chose the Rev. Joe Thompson, of Wintersburg, as advisor for the remainder of the quarter, ending next February, and set itself to carry on with the ideas brought them by the former advisor.

"We are most enthusiastic over the progress made, and the way our young people have shown they can think on these problems," said Miss Ulrich. "They also are beginning to find that our ministers are human and want to work with the young people. They are beginning to realize why they go to church and Sunday school and young people's meetings."

The institute offers classes in instruction of the Bible and the solution of practical questions. At the last institute a class on leadership was directed by a Los Angeles instructor who is president of the Southern California Conference of Young People.

A pot luck dinner starts the program, followed by Quest groups in class discussion, then a recreational hour so that all may get acquainted, and concluding with a chapel hour, for devotional exercises.

Landon Advocated State Socialism For Work Projects

The unhappiest man in America is Mr. John D. M. Hamilton, the handsome chairman of the Republican National Committee.

For months, the poor fellow has been chasing all over the United States warning his fellow countrymen against Reds, Socialists, Communists, Radicals and what not. He wants them all deported—calls upon President Roosevelt to drive them out of the country. And now what do you suppose has happened?

Handsome Mr. Hamilton discovers that his own candidate for President, Gov. Alfred M. Landon, was advocating state Socialism less than two years ago. And Gov. Landon admits it. Talk about radicals boring from within!

CONTRASTING VIEWS

Today Gov. Landon is the Republican candidate for President of the United States—less than two years ago he was suggesting that Uncle Sam finance state-owned telephone lines and state-owned corporations to distribute natural gas.

Today Gov. Landon is shouting that the Roosevelt Administration should keep "hands off business"—two years ago he was asking Uncle Sam to drive out private business by starting state-owned business in competition.

In the record of modern politics, it is doubtful if a major candidate for the Presidency has so completely reversed his position on public questions as quickly as Gov. Landon. And the odd fact is that the Governor switched his views about the time he was nominated for the Presidency on the Republican ticket.

ICKES REVEALS

The disclosure of Gov. Landon's view was made by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who is also Administrator of Public Works. Here is the letter:

State of Kansas

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

TOPEKA

February 7, 1935

Hon. Harold Ickes
Public Works Administrator,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Ickes:

If you do not have the authority under the P. W. A. to make loans to states for public state-wide telephone systems, may I suggest that it would be a sound public policy to obtain this authority.

With highest personal regards, I am

Yours sincerely,

Alfred M. Landon
Governor

Secretary Ickes revealed also that Gov. Landon was negotiating secretly to set up a state-financed corporation which would "purchase, prospect for and produce natural gas" in competition with private companies in Kansas. These negotiations were carried on secretly without being brought to the attention of the people of Kansas.

Of course, the foregoing plans were dropped like hot stove lids when Mr. William Randolph Hearst decided to sell Gov. Landon to the Republican chieftains as the stalwart champion of private initiative in business. Never once since then has Gov. Landon—or any of his intimates—disclosed that he had been trying to establish state-owned industries in Kansas.

To hear Gov. Landon warning that "our form of government is in danger," it seems almost unbelievable that in 1935, he wanted to extend the state authority over private industry to a degree never before attempted in this country.

Financing Gov. Landon's candidacy for the Presidency today are the du Ponts, J. P. Morgan, the Rockefellers, and other overlords who have made vast fortunes through their control and exploitation of public monopolies. What a shock for them to learn that their candidate at heart really believes in government ownership!

Never Wrong Yet, Digest Poll Spells L-A-N-D-O-N-S-L-I-D-E

Back in 1932, some of us Republicans went baldheaded trying to prove that the Literary Digest poll didn't mean a thing.

The Digest predicted THAT YEAR that Mr. Roosevelt would get 23,203,000 popular votes and 474 electoral votes. As it turned out, he got 22,522,000 popular votes and 472 electoral votes.

Digest error, LESS THAN 1 PER CENT. That's as near a perfect score as any human agency could make. And the previous polls of the Digest, ever since they have been started, have been almost equally accurate.

Painful Memories

So the alibis we thought up in 1932 on the Digest poll, when things were Mr. Roosevelt's way, made slightly silly reading after that election.

And the alibis our Good Comrades are thinking up in 1936 on the Digest poll will, we think, make equally humorous literature after THIS election.

Their most effective alibi (in our opinion) has been the betting odds that have been rigged in New York City to discount the Digest poll. If you take the odds in the various States and add them up, you don't get the answers that our Good Comrades have been giving.

And we have heard one amusing yarn—possibly untrue—that some of our Good Comrades who HAVE bet on Roosevelt are hedging by investing in the stock market for a rise if Landon wins.

"Dirty Republican Propaganda"

Maybe that story is just "dirty Republican propaganda," as Friend Farley would say, but it tickled us. We shouldn't blame our Good Comrades for playing safe, the way things look now.

However—getting back to the Digest—Gov. Landon is something like a 3 to 2 winner on the published returns to date, unless the poll is completely haywire. Our understanding is that it is following the same old methods which have never missed yet, and which four years ago CORRECTLY REFLECTED the views of all Americans, whether they had phones, radios and autos or whether they didn't even have a pot to cook in.

Wendell A. Haynes, Fifth Ave., accountant: "I'm going to vote for Gov. Landon. Under his policies, we will pay less in taxation than we have been paying under President Roosevelt. I am the head of a household. As head of that household I have had to expend many more dollars. It seems to me that the Republican platform would eliminate a large part of the profit-gate spending by the New Deal."

Mrs. Julia Meagher, Second Ave., commercial clerk: "My vote will go to Governor Landon, because I cannot see any reason for all the foreign importations of foods while so many of our American men are on relief. I believe that Landon will help the farmer. Why must we import expensive foreign foods, when we could buy American products at much more reasonable prices?"

LOCAL PARADE ENTRY PUT IN 2ND DIVISION

Santa Ana's entry in the Anaheim Halloween parade, scheduled for tomorrow night, has been assigned to lead the second division. The assignment was announced last night by the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring organization for the fiesta.

Leadership of the division was assigned to lead the second division because it is the first time in the history of the celebration that Santa Ana has had an official entry in the parade.

This city's entry is a float built to resemble a band stand on which will be seated a 10-piece swing band and a singing unit from the Santa Ana Junior college. Trumpeters from the Santa Ana Municipal band and drum majors will precede the float.

Leland Auer, director of the municipal band, who designed the float will direct the swing band in the parade. Miss Myrtle Martin will direct the singing unit.

NAME SWANSON COLLEGE PRESS CLUB LEADER

Bob Swanson, editor of El Don, was elected president of the Santa Junior college Press club Tuesday evening at the opening meeting of the group at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. McCoy, 918 Kilson Drive. La Vonne Frandson was elected secretary-treasurer.

By the 50 students who attended the meeting it was tentatively decided to visit the Los Angeles Examiner plant early in December. Other trips to Southland newspapers and printing establishments are planned for the group.

Membership in the Press club is open to all jaycee students interested in journalism. Students do not have to be enrolled in journalism classes. Publication of the Student Directory, a little book containing the names, addresses, and phone numbers of students and faculty, is perhaps this club's most important service to the college.

Walt Bandick was president of the Press club last year. Ruth Warner was secretary-treasurer. Both are majoring in journalism this year at accredited universities. Bandick is enrolled at the University of Southern California, and Miss Warner at the University of California at Berkeley.

LABOR VIEWS EXPRESSED BY GOVERNOR LANDON IN TALK BEFORE AUDIENCE IN NEWARK

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 29.—Text of Gov. Landon's speech here yesterday follows:

Labor has fairly won many victories in this country. Its greatest triumph has been won on the field of battle but in the stronghold of public opinion. The greatest victory of labor, in my opinion, has been to bring about the general recognition of a important principle. It is that national prosperity depends on labor's receiving an increasing share of the value of everything it produces.

The truth of this principle is today accepted by the man who lives as well as by the man who dies. It is the foundation of increased production, greater national wealth, higher average purchasing power, and a larger measure of happiness for everyone.

Grown With Nation

Organized labor has been the natural champion of this principle. The father of the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers, was one of its first sponsors. As early as 1893, he declared:

"I believe that as time goes on, the wage earners will continue to become larger sharers per dollar of the wealth produced. I have

Why "Safety Diet" So Widely Fed

Rated By State's New, Strict Health Standard, This Famous Dog Ration is Proved Over 70% Richer in Vital Nutrition

At Least 4 Days in 7 Safeguard Your Pet This Way, University Experts Say

Thousands of California dog owners were startled by recent disclosures about some canned dog foods packed here.

Investigators found that inedible products—entirely unfit for dogs to eat—had sometimes been used in manufacturing such foods.

Immediately the State Health Department set new standards for commercial pet foods—standards that make Balto, the "Safety Diet," BIG NEWS. Because tests show Balto rates over 70% higher in the vital elements dogs need for health than the very rigid new requirements of the State Health Department!

Noted College Authority Says This:

"A readily available source of energy and adequate protein and minerals should exist in a dog's food. Balto has these three assets. Regardless of what other foods are given, feeding Balto at least 4 days out of 7 will benefit the canine's health."

Balto is made with whole, fresh-caught fish—including the nourishing glandular tissue. California State inspectors supervise its processing and packing.

Make the famous "Safety Diet" your dog's basic ration—for health. Feed Balto at least 4 days in every 7! Coast Fishing Company, Wilmington, Calif.

Let a veterinarian give your dog a thorough checking over twice a year. The cost is small—and often canine troubles can be prevented before they become serious.

has the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of its own choosing without interference by employers. But like many another old story, it needs to be emphasized and applied. When I am president I will see to it that federal laws for the protection of workers are enforced.

If this right of organized labor has been acquired through great sacrifice, it is all the more valuable because of the lesson of experience it has given us all. Today we know that progress comes through mutual understanding between labor and capital, reached through conferences based on the processes of collective bargaining.

Democratic Way

As Mr. Gompers said, "From the moment in which workers and employees negotiate and agree upon terms, hours, conditions and wages, the principle of autocratic domination gives way to the principle of democratic co-operation." In those words Mr. Gompers stated the American way of meeting the labor problem. It is the truly democratic way.

False liberalism and undisguised autocracy follow a different route. They do not bridge the chasm. They widen it. There is the way of war; not of peace.

Mr. Gompers' great success in the cause of organized labor lay in his genius in recognizing that the situation of the working man in this country is different from that of labor in the Old World. In most European nations labor has become a class apart. In America labor always has been merged in the nation as a whole.

No Entanglements

Labor in this country has progressed by following the Gompers policy of keeping free from entanglement with any political group. That policy more than anything else is responsible for the steady advance it has made. In the United States real wages have constantly increased, but at the same time labor has retained its freedom. More than that, it has won general recognition of its right to freedom of action.

Gompers Accused

Back in 1904 even Mr. Gompers himself was accused of belonging to this class. The cry was raised: "Gompers has promised to deliver the labor vote." Years later when writing the story of his life he made reply. I quote:

"I knew full well that I could not deliver the labor vote nor did I make any such promise or pretense. It was simply absurd for anyone to charge that I had in mind either the desire or the will or the ability to deliver the labor vote."

"To meet that unjust criticism and attack I frequently declared upon the public platform as well as in conferences and writings that I had not the power to deliver the vote of any man. The only vote which I controlled was my own."

Cannot Deliver Vote

Mr. Gompers spoke truly. No one can deliver the labor vote of America to any one political party. No one can deliver the farm vote of America to any one political party. No one can deliver any other class vote in America to any one political party.

Why? Because there are no classes in America. We are one nation and one people. We are a nation of individuals and of freemen. As freemen we may differ in our opinions on national affairs. But we are one people however much we may differ.

Political Tactics

That is the unique feature of our American system. Any one who claims to be able to deliver, or strives to deliver any part of the American people to a political master is betraying the creed of America. Such a person is sowing the seeds of destruction for all of us. He threatens to destroy the one classless nation in a world divided by class hatred and overshadowed by the tragedy of disunion.

Let us stand in the future, as in the past, a united people, a united nation!

Now, in conclusion I want to discuss another matter of deep concern to labor.

New Deal Programs

I have been frankly exposing the inadequacies, the inequalities, the dangers, and the disappointments inherent in the compulsory insurance programs of the New Deal. At the same time I have been offering in its stead a practical and a constructive program of real security.

The present administration claims that the burdens of the Social Security Act fall mainly upon the employers. The real facts are that they fall almost entirely on the workers. They must pay twice: once directly when the tax is deducted from their pay envelopes in increasing amounts until it reaches 3 per cent.

They must pay again indirectly in reduced employment, higher prices or lower wages. These inevitably must result from the 6 per cent pay roll taxes on their employers, who must pass on these increased costs to the public in one form or another.

Many Excluded

I have already pointed out that about half of our workers, those engaged in agriculture, household work and the like, are excluded from the benefits of the act; that this is the largest tax measure in our history; that the younger workers are forced to carry a disproportionately higher share of the burden than the older workers; and that Federal bureaucrats will check and recheck every pay envelope and every shift of jobs of every man and woman covered by the act.

I have also shown that the act does not set up a true insurance plan; that the taxes collected are not held in any savings or reserve fund as claimed. Instead they are diverted into government bonds, I. O. U.'s.

Promises to Pay

When payments become due, they must be currently authorized by Congress and newly financed. The act at best is only a promise of the government to raise money at some future time—if it can. Meanwhile the proceeds of these taxes in the hands of this administration will be used to meet current deficits and future extravaganzas. This is not social security. It will create social insecurity.

On the other hand, we Republicans have pledged ourselves to provide assistance to the needy, blind and crippled, to foster the promotion of child welfare and the improvement of the public health service.

Our platform proposes to encourage adoption by the States of honest and practical programs of unemployment insurance. This position is taken because all past experience abounds with this type of insurance has been a bitter disappointment. Practically every plan has broken down after a few months in the face of a depression of any duration.

The only real reserve to meet prolonged unemployment is sound government credit based upon a balanced budget and a low national debt. These facilitate necessary borrowing in time of need.

Exera Pay For Elderly

We Republicans further pledge ourselves to provide every American citizen over 65 with the supplementary payment necessary to give a minimum income sufficient to protect him or her from want. This is a genuine old-age pension plan which, I have always believed, should not be based on the pauper's oath, although this oath may be required under the present Social Security Act.

Our plan of Federal grants-in-aid by the States will be on a pay-as-you-go basis. The necessary funds will be raised by means of special tax, directly levied, and widely distributed. For, only if everyone bears his just share can we hope to prevent the plan being used for political purposes. Our program contemplates administration by the States on a non-political basis in order to end centralized control in Washington.

My criticism of the present act is not that its purpose is bad. It is that this act will involve a cruel disappointment for those of our people least able to bear the shock of disappointment. To these—our old people and our workers struggling for better conditions—I will not promise the moon. I promise only what I know can be performed: Economy, a living pension, and such security as can be provided by a generous people.

Interior of typical Western Auto Supply Company store, showing merchandise conveniently arranged for your inspection.

Los Angeles main store and warehouse. Conveniently located warehouses speed distribution and help keep prices lower.

Oakland main store and warehouse—improves our service to Northern California motorists.

PROPOSITION #22 aims to do just that, because it will tax the Western Auto Supply Company stores more than $50,000.00 a year, while the service stations of chain oil companies, which sell many auto accessories including tires and batteries, in direct competition with the Western Auto Supply Company, will not be taxed at all.

Why Cripple A Concern You Built With Your Purchases?

The Western Auto Supply Company started in California more than 20 years ago with one small store and a very small capital. It had no advantages that were not available to any other business. But, because it brought to motorists of California high quality merchandise at lower prices and a helpful service which they were not getting elsewhere, this one store was patronized to the point where it became necessary, for the convenience of the motoring public, to open more stores.

In order to help carry out this program of expansion, the Western Auto Supply Company incorporated under the laws of California, and almost all of its stock was sold and is now owned by Californians. Many of these stockholders are employees of the Company. These stockholders also ask: "Why place this discriminatory tax upon the Western Auto Supply Company, which already pays its share of local, state and federal taxes, and exempt the big oil companies and other chain organizations?"

Where Is The Equality And Fairness Of Such A Tax?

Why impose this discriminatory tax upon a concern which employs in California a thousand men and women who are happy in their work, who receive higher than average pay, who get annual vacations with full pay, who receive bonuses, and a large number of whom own stock in their Company, a concern which has in its 115 California stores 115 managers who share in the profits of the business, who have been with the Company on an average of 12 years and who started either as salesmen, warehouse men or service-shop men, and worked their way up to their present positions? Is it fair to require such a concern to pay for its 115 California stores a tax of more than $50,000.00 a year, while chain gasoline service stations handling many of the same lines of goods pay no tax at all?

Of course it isn't fair, and we are confident that California citizens, when correctly informed, will not permit this measure to pass.

The unfairness of Proposition #22 alone, we feel, is sufficient reason for fair-minded Californians to vote "no." But of the many other reasons that condemn this bill, there is one in particular upon which we want to throw the spotlight.

Let's Take A "Pocket-Book" View of Proposition #22

The Federal Trade Commission, in its final report on chain store investigation, came to this conclusion:

"To tax out of existence the advantages of chain stores over competitors is to tax out of existence the advantages which the consuming public have found in patronizing chain stores, with a consequent addition to the cost of living—"

"If ability to undersell, based on greater efficiency—is destroyed by taxation, it is the consuming public which will really pay the tax."

Sponsors of the bill say the $500.00 per store is only the beginning of their campaign to destroy the chain store. The next step will be to raise the tax to $2,500.00 or more per store. It is an accepted fact that because of chain store competition, all retailers have had to sell at lower prices. With chain stores forced out of business, prices will go up much more than the 10% which the government report says chains now save the public.

GUEST CONDUCTOR

"Rube" Samuelson, sports editor of the Pasadena Post, explains the Pasadena Junior college football, has run into not one, but several snags this year.

Readers of this department will recall that "West Winds" recently disclosed that, although some 7000 persons assembled in the Rose Bowl last month to watch Santa Ana and Pasadena, Santa Ana's "take" was a mere $250. Don officials were more than a little chagrined. Even their home games here have been drawing around $600 a start.

"The main public criticism," writes Samuelson, "concerns last Friday night's game with Long Beach. Tickets were supposed to be reserved, but many who bought tickets during the week with that understanding were unable to get their seats, let alone enter the tunnel, listed their pastboard. Considerable ill feeling was engendered, for the difficulty was major in extent. Many people were affected.

"Santa Ana also registers a complaint. It seems that the Dons' portion from the Bulldog game played in the Rose Bowl was but $250, despite an attendance upwards of 10,000. It is contended that 3000 passes to the game were issued to Pasadena to make the city Bulldog minded. Santa Ana, it is said, knew nothing of the passes and Don officials are vexed. As one said, 'Had we known, we could have placed a thousand or so passes very advantageously ourselves.'

"There is also a complaint from Pasadena theater owners. They don't object to night football games but they do object to the generous issue of passes. This last weekend, one group of the theaters was several hundred dollars in arrears of the usual business over a similar period.

"There are bound to be mistakes—some of which may be hard to condone. But it must be said in justice to P.J.C. officials that they have made Pasadena convincingly aware of the fact that the Bulldogs play good football. Also that the Rose Bowl 'show' each Friday night is second to none and that includes the Los Angeles Coliseum. In the future, other schools are going to be rewarded by dividends accruing from the greater interest in P.J.C. games."

Keeping up with the Haps: Rambling Ray averaged seven yards per try from scrimmage and 26 yards on punt returns against Catholic U. in the Homecoming Day Saturday which proved sufficient to keep the Cardinals on the run in the first half and aided in stopping their second half thrusts to give Ole Miss a 14-0 victory. Haps stopped one threat when he took a touchdown pass on Ole Miss' 15 and returned the oval to Catholic's 48.

Trust the wrestlers to capitalize on every stray opportunity. It's why they draw, I guess.

Press Agent Tige Clinton sends word that next Monday, the night before election, the Orange County Athletic club's main-evening, Howard Cantonwine and Pat O'Shocker, are going to give the bugs a Roosevelt-Landon preview.

One of the men will wear Roosevelt's colors, the other Landon's. Fans will pick their man. Popular applause is to decide the issue prior to a three-fall affray.

Well, it won't be much dirtier than politics at that.

RICKEY REFUSES TO SET PRICE ON DEAN

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 29.—(UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals are willing to let their ace moundman, "Dizzy" Dean, go to some other National league club, but there definitely is not a cash price tag on the star, Branch Rickey, general manager of the Cards, said here today.

"It is true that for the first time we will consider letting Dean go, but strictly on a cash basis, $500,000 wouldn't buy him. In fact, the only kind of cash transaction that could involve 'Dizzy' would be one whereby our franchise would be sold."

Dickey said it would take "several stars" who could help the Cardinals win a pennant plus approximately $150,000 to get the pitching ace.

Whether the Dons win, lose or draw, Santa Ana fans are in for a treat because Kenny Washington, the Bruins' sensational 165-pound back, is rated as the best passer and ball-packer produced by a Los Angeles high school in years. Washington graduated from Lincoln last spring. Here is a brief summary of what Washington did against the Stanford papooses: kicked a 20 yard field goal; tossed two passes that resulted in two touchdowns; made good on two out of three conversion attempts; made sensational 55-yard run in the final quarter that put the Bruins in a position to score the winning touchdown.

CARNEY OF SAINTS HURT

Like their big brother at the junior college, Santa Ana's Saints will be on the short end of the dope Saturday afternoon when they face Alhambra in a Coast league game at the Bowl. Alhambra's 14-7 victory over Santa Ana, a team that wallowed in the mud, apparently gives George Hobbs' Moors a decisive edge. Alhambra made its winning touchdown on a pass in the last three minutes of play. Then Santa Ana came back on a hide-out play and had the ball on Alhambra's 7-yard mark when the game ended.

Vernon Carney, now Santa Ana's first string left tackle, bruised a leg in blocking practice yesterday and it is doubtful whether he'll be able to start. Dick Horton, left guard, is also limping on a bad ankle and Coach Bill Foote may shift Right Guard Bob Maddock to Horton's spot although Monte Klepper looked good there against Long Beach. Bill Musick's defensive work at fullback has improved and "Little Jim" may get the call over Joe Kadowaki.

BALSAMO LOSES WICKEDNESS

Mac Finds Fighter Speechless In Dressing Room

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—It is as if when the dazzy marine was chunking tonishing how quickly a few pops on the profile will smother the killer flame in the heart of a prizefighter.

In the first few rounds of his engagement with Edward Risko at the exceedingly plush Hippodrome last evening, Harry Balsamo was as vicious as Tarzan with a toothache, and more eager for the kill than a headhunter who needs but one more to complete a necklace of perfectly matched skulls.

With his lips set in a wicked line, he stalked Risko relentlessly and his every gesture betrayed a robust eagerness to send the handsome Syracuse boy home "in the baggage car."

Then Risko, who when he entered the ring didn't figure to last more than three or four rounds, began to hop his enemy on the nose. And with each punch you could almost see Balsamo's killer instinct dwindle. By the time the sixth round came up the New York boy, who had been likened to Ketchell at his Stanley, would have been perfectly willing to shake hands, retire to a cozy little tea room, and split a crumpet with the man whose head he had vowed to remove in the roughest possible manner. And by the tenth round he probably would have agreed to pick up the check and leave the tip.

Balsamo, a former subway brakeman, was supposed to take Risko in stride and clinch a shot at Freddie Steele's middleweight championship. His record of 16 knockouts in 20 fights had so impressed the gambling fraternity that he was 3 to 1 over Risko, a one-time wearer of the 160-pound diadem himself. As it turned out, the odds were ridiculous. No man with but one weapon should ever be 3 to 1 over anybody, and one weapon is all Balsamo has. It's a right hand, and as right hands go it's a honey. For power, that is. But not for style. To deliver it will full force, Balsamo has to use a wind-up reminiscent of old Dazzy Vance.

BEATEN COACHES SAY GOPHERS INVINCIBLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(UP)—The four coaches whose teams have been smashed by Minnesota's giants of the north today analyzed the Gophers for the United Press. Harry Kipke of Michigan and Noble Kizer of Purdue believe Minnesota is invincible. Dana X. Bible of Nebraska regards Minnesota as a more versatile team than the Gophers' National championship teams of 1934 and 1935. Jimmy Phelan of the University of Washington says Minnesota is the best team the Huskies have played but maybe not the greatest eleven in the country. All agree the Gophers' weakness is kicking.

JOCKEY GARNER DIES SUDDENLY

COVINGTON, Ky., Oct. 29.—(UP)

—Mack Garner, 36, one of America's top-ranked jockeys for the past two decades, died of a heart attack at his home here late last night.

Garner, one of four brothers who made an imprint in the thoroughbred racing world as riders, had mounted at the River Downs track at Cincinnati yesterday and was astride one winner, Slant Eye.

After he returned to his home Garner complained of being ill. A few hours later his condition became serious and he collapsed. A life saving squad was called to administer restoratives and he was rushed to a hospital. The rider was dead upon arrival.

The jockey's last great triumph came in 1934 when he won the Kentucky Derby with Cavalcade.

TROY SOFT-PEDALS ROSE BOWL GOSSIP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—Mid-season inventory of University of Southern California football hopes, taken this week as the Trojans draw a bye in their schedule, shows that the S. C. squad is vastly improved over the aggregations of 1934 and '35 in every department of play, but also reveals that because of the hard games to come and the inexperience of most of the Trojan gridgers, close followers of the team are soft-peddling conference championship and Rose Bowl talk.

Victories over Oregon State, Illinois and Stanford and a scoreless tie with Washington State have placed the Trojans back again among the top flight teams, but Southern California followers are more inclined to look ahead to 1937 and '38 for their possible champions than to expect a world beater this year.

Games ahead are with California Nov. 7, here; Washington, Nov. 14, in Seattle; U. C. L. A., Nov. 26, here, and Notre Dame, Dec. 5, here. Lineup of the Trojan "double-decker" teams, the "veterans" and the "soph's," shows why S. C. followers hold high hopes for the future. Out of the 22 players, 14 are sophomores and four are juniors, which leaves only four to be lost by graduation at the end of the school year.

Here are the present Trojan lineups:

Veterans	Sophomores
Hibbs (Jun.)	L. E. Wehba (So.)
Belko (Sen.)	L. T. McNeil (So.)
Halvorsen (So.)	G. G. Hansen (Jun.)

It Was Funny Then, Not So Funny Now

It might have been "alapsick" comedy to Thomas Murphy, 19, Long Beach, when he hurled a juicy tomato into the crowd at the Municipal Bowl during a football game between Long Beach and Santa Ana high schools last Saturday, but the smile was wiped off his face today as he sat in county jail here, awaiting prosecution of an assault charge.

The tomato, according to W. McWilliams of Long Beach, the complaining witness, struck his friend and companion at the time, Mrs. Edward Brainard, also of Long Beach. Murphy, a plumber's helper, was arrested in Long Beach by Officers Vance and Anderson and turned over to Santa Ana police officers last night. The arrest was made on a warrant issued by City Judge J. G. Mitchell, who set bail at $100.

In court today, Murphy pleaded not guilty and demanded jury trial. The trial was set for November 5, 10 a. m.

RISKO EXPLODES BALSAMO MYTH

BY LESLIE AVERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Harry (Slambango) Balsamo, 160 1-4, New York's subway slugger, faded from the middleweight championship picture today after having the daylight belted out of him by former champion "Babe" Risko, 161.

Hailed as the second edition of Paul Berlenbach, another Ketchel and the next champion of the division after his convincing knock-out over Eric Seelig a week ago, young Balsamo was beaten last night at his own game—slugging. More than 5000 fans paid $13,750 in Mike Jacobs' Hippodrome, yelled themselves hoarse for 10 rounds as the two fighters stood toe-to-toe and let go with everything they had, then cheered the unanimous judges' award of the decision to Risko.

Despite Balsamo's loss—his first after 29 straight victories as a professional including 16 knockouts—his popularity did not appear to suffer. It was the kind of brawl spectators like.

Risko's long ring experience saved him in the fourth when Balsamo exploded that dynamite right to the Babe's chin. It knocked his mouthpiece from between his teeth and he weaved groggily.

But Risko dove in a clinch when the youngster came in to finish him. In that same session he caught Balsamo a terrific blow over the liver which slowed the belting subway socker down.

Risko, who lost his 160-pound crown to Freddie Steele last summer, showed a cold disdain for Balsamo's highly publicized right hand from the start.

Hollywood Turf Club Will Defy Cal. Race Board

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—(UP)—The Hollywood Turf club today defied the California horse racing commission to prevent it from building a second track in the Los Angeles area by announcing that work on the project would continue.

The Turf club made its announcement shortly after the commission by a 2 to 1 vote withdrew a provisional permit granted the film colony group.

LAGUNA BEACH BATTLES BREA OILERS AT 6.6

MINOR DIVISION

	W. L. Pct.
Laguna Beach	2 0 1000
Brea-Clinda	1 0 1000
Tustin	1 1 500
Valencia	0 1 0
San Juan Capistrano	0 2 0

Laguna Beach at San Juan Capistrano; Brea-Clinda at Valencia; Tustin at Anaheim (Non-conference).

Vulnerable in the Orange league's Minor division, Laguna Beach must play its cards carefully tomorrow when it goes to Brea for a "climax game" with the defending champions.

Coach "Shorty" Smith's eleven—pre-season choice to breeze through the Minor division—is the favorite. Both squads are currently tied for the leadership.

Coach Maurice (Red) Guyer's Artists, with four successive victories, boast one of the strongest lines in the conference, with their first string yet to be scored on. Brea-Clinda, on the other hand, with more experienced players plus Laguna Beach's spirited challenge for a championship in its second year of league competition.

Gordon Baker, whose flashy open-field running has been outstanding, carries the burden for Brea. He will be ably assisted by a crew of blockers that has cleared the way for many of his lengthy dashes. Laguna's Rollo Beck, the league's No. 1 kicker, may turn the contest into a punting duel. The Artists also have in Archie Blacketer and Herman Walker, driving line-plunger and a formidable lineman who have been conspicuous by their sterling play.

Valencia remains on the schedule for both Laguna Beach and Brea-Clinda while the Wildcats must further contend with Bill Cole's Tustin Farmers.

Their sagging prospects revived by a non-league victory over Garden Grove last week, Valencia's Tigers take on Gil Strother's scrappy San Juan Capistrano Cougars at Placentia. Valencia rules a slight favorite.

Drawing a bye in their regular league schedule, Tustin's Farmers tackle Anaheim Colonists at Anaheim. Both teams occupy similar positions in their division. Each has won one game and has been defeated once. The Farmers beat Valencia, lost to Laguna last week. Anaheim was upset by Garden Grove but walloped Newport Harbor at Orange; Tustin at Anaheim (Non-conference).

Orange	1 0 1000
Garden Grove	1 0 1000
Huntington Beach	1 1 500

Huntington Beach at Garden Grove; Newport Harbor at Orange; Tustin at Anaheim. (Non-conference).

Johnny's Ward's Garden Grove Argonauts, who handed the Major division of the Orange league its greatest upset by thumping Anaheim two weeks ago, goes to the post against Huntington Beach on Garden Grove's gridiron tomorrow.

Game time is 2:15, considerably earlier than usual. It is a tough assignment for the little Garden Grove gang that averages only 146 pounds per man against the Oilers' 160. Huntington Beach is given an even chance.

ELECTION GLEANINGS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Gov. Landon has a small but apparently bare margin in Michigan. The best surveys indicate he has reason to expect a majority of about 50,000 votes there, although this figure is not guaranteed.

Massachusetts is supposed to be even surer for Landon, with prospects that his majority there may reach 170,000.

President Roosevelt's majority in Missouri is being expertly guessed at a strong 170,000; in Arizona, at a slim 20,000, and, in New Mexico, at a slimmer 18,000.

Note—None of these figures is perfect, but the guesses for the western states usually work out more accurately than in the more populous states.

TODAY'S SPECIAL

All the polls show Governor Landon leading in South Dakota, but the small sum of ten cents (no more, no less) could easily be wangled that Mr. Roosevelt may carry it by a majority of 13,000 to 30,000 votes.

INVERSION

The only really sure indication of Governor Landon's election was given the other day when General Johnson told friends Landon would not carry five states. The general won a reputation in NRA days for prophecying backward with unfailing regularity.

Incidentally, Johnson has met all rumors that he may be the next secretary of war with the crack that the only thing he is likely to do is to be the white house dog house. This makes it more or less certain also that he will be next secretary of war.

SAFETY FIRST

The hypersensitive state department has rarely been hyped on any subject as much as upon the forthcoming Pan-American conference. The experts in delicacy have been really outdoing themselves in an effort to keep that meeting pure and serene.

For example, there is an assistant state secretary named Sumner Welles. The statement that he exists can now be made flatly. Reporters saw him the other day with their own eyes, for just about the first time since he took office. He called them in. That, in itself, caused a sensation in state department quarters. It was expected that nothing less than a declaration of war would be announced, but all Mr. Welles wanted to say was that there was nothing in the visit paid him by Juan B. Sacasa, former president of Nicaragua.

It was the first that anyone had heard of Sacasa's visit, because Mr. Welles always runs his visitors in and out without detection. Nevertheless, Mr. Welles did not want the word to get to South America that he had been hobnobbing with the Nicaraguan, installed by the Stimson mediation and later tossed by Guardia forces who were tutored in milder tactics by American Marines.

Japan has been hinting around that she would like to maintain the status quo on fortifications in the Pacific. She is supposed to have sounded out England and England has sounded out our authorities about what will be done when the 1921 treaty pledge against fortifications expires December 31. Nothing official has been done about it yet.

It sounds like a good idea, but there is more than a suspicion here that Japan would not now be in favor of the status quo unless the status quo was in her favor. That is, authorities have reason to believe that Japan must have completed her indirect fortification program. She has been dredging out harbors, only for "commercial purposes," of course, creating sand beach landing fields, only for "commercial planes," of course, and generally has worked her commercial program around so that it fits her naval needs perfectly.

For instance, there are the Bonin Islands, 500 miles south of her mainland. She had a $400,000,000 fortification project started there in 1921 when the treaty scrapped it. Not an outside visitor has been permitted to visit the Bonins since 1921. Dredging is said to have made the harbor big enough to house about two-thirds of the Japanese fleet. Perhaps the half-dozen 18-inch motor she had on Peel Island there have not been augmented, but maybe she added about a few dozen.

THREE DAY LUTHERAN PARLEY CONCLUDED WITH MEMORIAL

ORANGE, Oct. 29.—Closing a three-day conference at the St. John's Lutheran church, approximately 60 pastors of the Sierra-Pacific group left for their homes last night with closing of sessions late in the afternoon. The meeting place set for the next semi-annual convocation in April was Escondido.

The Rev. E. H. Kriedt, of Olive, president of the conference, gave an address in memory of the late William Battermann who served as principal of the St. John's day school for 34 years and who was engaged in educational work for nearly half a century. The leader said in part:

"We are gathered to honor the memory of William Battermann, our senior Christian Day school teacher, the senior both in point of age and also in point of service rendered in our district. He was permitted to employ his excellent gifts and abilities for almost half a century in the services of Christian elementary education; the greater part of that service was rendered in our conference."

"During these years he was privileged to lend a guiding hand in moulding the character of hundreds of children and young people; to implant in their hearts the fear of God which is the beginning of wisdom."

"Let us remember him with the humble realization that God alone can make us able and sufficient to perform this service to our fellows and to our blessed Savior and Lord. May the memory of William Battermann, under the gracious providence of God, be to us all, both teachers and pastors, a constant and powerful incentive to give ourselves with greater zeal and wholehearted consecration to the cause of Christian education for our children."

Craig discussed the measures on the ballot stating that the so-called single tax amendment which was No. 1 on the list of propositions and which was ruled off by action of the supreme court, would probably be found back on the ballot in two years' time.

He stated that propositions Nos. 5 and 6 concern Los Angeles county alone and relate to the proposed Pacific exposition planned to celebrate the completion of Boulder dam. He stated that inadvertently No. 23 had been drafted in such a way that it would abolish term appointments of railway commissioners and make other weakening changes as well as change the name of the commission to "Public Service Commission."

DISCONTENT IN WPA RANKS IS GROWING DAILY

BY GEORGE E. HART

Rumblings of discontent among the county's unemployed, including legitimate WPA workers (those in low brackets), seems to have a genuine basis of complaint.

Among the more flagrant abuses of the relief objective coming to light in the local WPA setup, the importation of preferred political friends from outside the county, and their placement on preferred WPA jobs, is being disclosed in growing proportions.

Some of the jobs are deliberately manufactured to accommodate somebody from outside the county, who would seem to have no right to take local jobs away from the local unemployed.

Just how widespread this particular evil is, could only be disclosed by the inner works of WPA. But occasionally it is possible to dig up a definite case, like that of Kenneth Shell, the New Yorker, who hoped over all the state relief requirements of residence, into a relief job which, while under federal control, is supposed to be for California unemployed.

There are others, it is being discovered. They are Californians, but they have no business working on relief in Orange county. Here are some of them:

Edward Mensik, Los Angeles, first brought in as timekeeper at a transient camp, at $100 per month and subsistence, later transferred to a headquarters job.

William Berryman, of Glendale, case similar to that of Mensik. He has since left the county.

Carl Diehl, of San Diego, paid by the sewing project in Orange county, and registered at the Hotel Rossmore, in Santa Ana, but actually lives and works in San Diego.

There are several feminine cases, also. We have the names, but are not using them. One was a 17-year-old Long Beach girl, given an $80 per month job as stenographer in the manager's office, merely because his secretary was lonesome and wanted her girl friend for company. The girl friend had no office experience. Later she married and quit her job.

O woman from Imperial county was placed on a WPA administrative job. Another woman, reportedly the sister of George White, district WPA manager at San Diego, was brought here and made administrator of a sewing project.

I am as curious as you; I asked her what she meant. She explained that she is ordinarily a light, careful eater. I know this to be true; the one time I knew her to eat intelligently was when she went on a pickle-and-relish diet to reduce her waistline and almost wrecked her stomach instead. To return to my original point, when Joan becomes angry, she tears off on a food riot. She invariably pays for her folly with a stomach ache.

She had such an ache yesterday. Night before last she had headed for a preview, became tangled in traffic, arrived half an hour late. Instead of cursing, she fumed until she returned home, by which time she was mad enough to eat a can of tomatoes, can included. She compromised on what was in the ice box plus a quart of creamed chipped beef. Yesterday as she held her tummy and groaned, I said, "If I were you I'd forget eating business when you're angry. Learn to cuss instead."

Riding out to Dick Arlen's Toluca Lake house yesterday with Richard himself, we saw a boy and girl riding bicycles. The boy playfully bumped the girl's bike and she took a nifty tumble to the pavement. She bounced up with fire in her eyes, and boy oh boy did she box her companion's ears! "There," drily commented Arlen as we drove off, "is another Katharyn Hepburn."

MISS KEANE TELLS RANKIN'S PATRONS SECRETS OF HAIR

That the majority of women are negligent with regard to care of their hair, is the conclusion reached by Miss Marcelle Keane, an expert on the care of "woman's crowning glory," who is spending this week in the Rankin Dry Goods store.

This prevailing negligence, according to Miss Keane, has the result of spoiling what otherwise would be the perfect frame for any woman's face and features. For to her, lovely and well-cared for hair, is just that—a perfect frame, designed by nature. Miss Keane is spending the winter months on the coast, offering her aid and advice to western women in correct care and grooming of their tresses. She is with the New York salon of Orlive Sisters, whose tonics and hair preparations are handled by leading beauty salons and department stores of the country.

She will be at the toilet department of the Rankin store for the remainder of this week, ready to offer her suggestions and advice to Santa Ana women, interested in scalp welfare and hair treatments. And her consultations are not merely verbal ones, for women may make appointments with her and have the pleasure of receiving one of her restful yet stimulating scalp treatments. These start with a gentle massage of the neck and throat and include a thorough manipulation with her magic figure of the scalp itself, and an application of the type of tonic best suited to the individual needs of each patron.

Last week Miss Keane was at Riverside. Next week she will be in one of the major Los Angeles department stores. Other Southland cities will follow in turn until the first of the year, when she leaves for the north.

'SKIN GAMES' WILL BE TABOO ARMISTICE DAY

There will be no "skin games" and no high pressure tactics to relieve visitors to the Armistice Day celebration in Santa Ana of their cash.

Such was the announcement made by E. T. McFadden, chairman of the finance committee for the Armistice Day celebration.

The merchants of Santa Ana and other sections of the county will not be "bled" and not even an official program will be printed this year. Heretofore merchants have expended as high as $1,000 for advertising in the programs on Armistice Day. This year it is out. The merchants will not be put to any expense whatever this year.

McFadden announced that the city and county governments had underwritten the celebration. The city appropriated money for the celebration from monies collected through license fees from merchants during the year.

Likewise there will be no vendors or hawkers on the streets either before, during, or after the parade.

The theme of "Safety First" will be carried out by the police of Santa Ana during the parade. Forty officers from other parts of the county will be brought to Santa Ana on Armistice Day and will police the line of march. They will see that the children and others attending the parade are protected from accidents. There will be no "horse play" on the streets and extra police cars will patrol the residence section of the city to protect unguarded homes while the occupants are attending the parade, according to Police Commissioner Plummer Bruns.

Mounted police also will be on the streets during the parade and Plummer Bruns assures "Safety First" will be the motto of the police.

Lin Price, prominent Chicago attorney will speak on "Rededication of the Statue of Liberty."

Foreign Farmers Sell $1,391,099.377 in Foodstuffs Here While 33 Million American Acres Lie Idle

Committee Reveals Figures Showing 2,500,000 American Farmers Out of Work

A GRAPHIC picture of the plight of agriculture during the last four years is drawn in a pamphlet being widely distributed to American farmers by the Independent Agricultural Committee. Accompanied by a cartoon by J. N. (Ding) Darling showing what has happened to farms under the New Deal, the booklet calls attention in popular terms to many facts about farm income.

In 1935, it points out, there were 33,463,336 American farm acres out of business and 2,500,000 American farmers out of jobs.

Foreign Farmers Get American Farmers' Money

At the same time, says the booklet, in 1935 under the New Deal foreign farmers fed to American consumers 5,790,696 tons of food stuffs (Eleven and a half billion pounds.) For this the foreign farmers received 1,391,099,377 American dollars.

"Farming is the foundation of the national economy. The New Deal has overloaded that foundation by its wasteful spending of $31,000,000,000. If the New Deal can turn over $1,391,099,377 of the American farmers' money in one year (1935) to the foreign farmer—How much of your money will it turn over to the foreign farmer in another four years—if you give it the chance?

"If the New Deal can spend $31,000,000,000 in its first four years what size bill will it present you—the American Farmer—to pay in another four years—if you give it the chance?"

"If the New Deal built up new instruments of public power, which can be used by political puppets to provide you with shackles, what kind of shackles will these political puppets forge for you in the next four years—if you give it the chance?"

PLANT EXPERT TO AID BRAZIL

Dr. H. S. Fawcett, professor of plant pathology, at the Citrus Experiment Station, Riverside, and well known to citrus growers of Orange county, will go to Brazil for a visit of six months, at the invitation of the Brazilian government, to assist in a study of citrus and other sub-tropical fruit diseases. He has been granted sabbatical leave by the regents of the university, and will leave the first of November, returning to Riverside on April 30, next year.

Woman Seeking Trace Of Missing Father

Mrs. Nathaniel Beck, Baltimore, Maryland, sent a letter to Police Chief Floyd Howard yesterday asking aid in locating her father, Albert Munzebroch, 70, who may be residing in Orange county.

She said she understood that her father has been "living in California for many years and has been successful in the oil business." Munzebroch is a German citizen, according to the message, but the letter contained no further description.

Mrs. Beck did not say how long she had been separated from her father. She also expressed some doubt about his exact age, but concluded that he was "about 70."

MORE TROUBLE FOR ROSENDAHL

The man who "asked for it" in city court yesterday morning and got it—six months in county jail after being convicted of assault and battery in connection with an alleged attack upon D. M. Terhune, chief clerk for the Edison company—suffered another setback yesterday afternoon when Judge Kenneth Morrison, of Santa Ana Justice court, ruled that James Rosendahl, Route 1, Anaheim, is indebted to J. F. Michael in the amount of $397.72.

After being convicted of the Terhune attack, by a jury which met all day Tuesday, with City Judge J. J. Mitchell, Rosendahl walked into city court yesterday and demanded that he be given "the limit."

"You've got it," was the judge's answer as he sentenced Rosendahl to six months.

Even as Rosendahl was packing his street clothes and getting into his jail dungeons, Michael was winning his decision in Justice court. Rosendahl was "unavoidably detained," Michael contended. Rosendahl, with H. E. Poyet of Los Angeles, signed a note for $231.16 on July 13, 1935, and borrowed that amount but never paid it back. Poyet, stating he signed the note on the promise that he would get a portion of Rosendahl's property if Rosendahl failed to pay the note within the required year, argued he should not be held responsible because he never got the Rosendahl property, or any part of it. The note, records show, arose from Rosendahl's failure to pay his proportionate share of expenses in a pumping plant. Poyet contended he was to get Rosendahl's property in case the fruit crop failed so that Rosendahl could not pay the note. The crop failed. But both Rosendahl and Poyet were held responsible in Judge Morrison's decision and must pay the $231.16 plus various costs which bring the total to $397.72.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 45 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NAME HARWOOD REGISTRAR OF AGED IN CITY

Postmaster F. R. Harwood has been designated to head the old age benefits enrollment in the area served by the Santa Ana postoffice and shortly will send application cards to all persons employed in commerce and industry who in turn will be required to file the cards with the city postoffice, the social security board announced today.

Each applicant will then be issued an enrollment card giving his name and number. A record card to show amounts each person is paying in jointly with his employer toward an old age pension at 65 years of age will be made out in the postoffice and sent to social security headquarters.

Insofar as possible, distribution of cards will be only among eligible persons, avoiding agricultural, domestic, civil, and non-profit religious and charitable organization employees. Substitute postal carriers and clerks will be used as much as possible for the enrollment.

The social security board plans to have the distribution of application cards well under way by November 15, although it may not start until a little later in some localities due to the problem involved in distributing millions of such cards through the nation's postoffices.

The deadline for filing cards is January 1, the date of old age benefits payroll tax becomes effective. This is the tax, half paid by employer and half by employee, provided in the federal social security act, and which increases gradually from 2 per cent to 6 per cent by 1949.

NAME SALVATION ARMY TO BE CHRISTMAS BASKET CLEARING HOUSE FOR HOLIDAY SEASON

SALVATION ARMY headquarters, 214 North Sycamore street, has been designated as the clearance depot for distributing Christmas baskets to all needy families in Santa Ana this year.

Decision to make the headquarters a clearance depot for the charity work was approved recently at a meeting of the Salvation Army advisory board held in Rossmore cafe. At the same time members of the board decided to request all organizations that generally assist in the distribution of Christmas baskets and private citizens who desire to help with the work, to cooperate in the effort so that no needy family in the city shall be overlooked and to prevent duplication of efforts.

Organizations or individuals planning to distribute Christmas baskets this year or those who have the names of needy families who should receive help in the holiday season are being requested to contact Captain McAllan at the Salvation Army.

During the meeting J. B. Casteln, secretary of the board, reported that during the month of September a total of 182 families and 552 transients had received help through the Salvation Army. The assistance to families included the giving of needed furniture, shoes, garments, groceries and bread.

Transients were given a total of 394 meals, beds were supplied to 172 persons, while articles of wearing apparel and shoes were distributed to other needy travelers. Jobs were found for 28 persons including work for 17 men and 11 women.

MOCK ELECTION WILL BE HELD BY STUDENTS

Students and faculty members of the Santa Ana Junior college will cast their vote for the president of the United States Monday, November 2, in a mock election staged by the Phi Sigma Alpha organization and political science classes of the college.

The election will be run off in true legal style. The voters will use sample ballots obtained by the students and containing the names of the California electors of both candidates. Standard booths are being borrowed from the county and will be erected in College Hall on the campus. Polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. under the direction of students acting in the capacity of election officials.

The affair is being staged in connection with political science classes which, under the direction of L. L. Beeman, head of the social science department, are studying the methods of nominations and presidential elections.

Both students and faculty are being urged to participate in the election through bulletins, advertising, and editorials in the college paper in order to obtain a representative count. A similar election was run off during last campaign year, Herbert Hoover being nominally elected by the students.

Bridge Players Devote
"Elks" Night" To
Card Session

Tuesday night being the special night in the week when Santa Ana Elks leave home and fireside for the counter attractions of lodge night at Elks club, a little group of Elks' wives long since determined that Tuesday was the ideal evening for a friendly session of bridge.

This week they were entertained by Mrs. Inez Currie of North Tustin avenue, and spent a gay evening at contract play, in which Mrs. Jack Miller walked away with the evening's honors—and the corresponding first prize. Mrs. Campbell went to the other extreme in scoring and was appropriately consoled.

The evening ended, as these friendly affairs always do, with the hostess, Mrs. Currie, serving light refreshments to her guests who included her sister, Mrs. Ralph Miller, Mrs. Don Jerome, Mrs. Robert Walker, Mrs. Jack Miller, Mrs. E. R. Majors, Mrs. Gilbert P. Campbell, Mrs. Bess Gerhardt, Mrs. Harold Brown, Mrs. William H. Garvin, Mrs. Bennie Osterman and Mrs. V. L. Motry.

Pumpkin pie and coffee were served at tables decorated in orange and black.

Mrs. Elmer Maxson, general chairman of the affair, was assisted by a committee composed of Mesdames William Pierce, Harry Edwards and Harry Pickard.

Composer And Poet Present
Unusual Song

Tomorrow when clubwomen of Orange county meet in Santa Ana Elks clubhouse for the annual mid-year convention, Mrs. Archibald Edwards of Fullerton, president of the county federation, will pay a charming compliment to that "Sweet singer of Elks society" (and countless other Santa Ana groups), Miss Beulah May, whose recently published book of poems, "Buccaners' Gold" continues to attract attention.

Programs of the day's events to be distributed among the clubwomen will bear Miss May's song of Santa Ana and Orange county, "Where the Santiago Flows," and the clubwomen will join in singing it, and Miss May has been asked to read some of her poems.

A charming musical setting has been given the song by Miss Dorothy Mayhew, 410 West Second street, who is rapidly coming to the fore as one of the community's gifted composers. The melody is a haunting, lovely thing, suggesting the Spanish background of the county, and perfectly adapted to the spirit of Miss May's poem.

Miss Mayhew is gaining recognition for her composing ability, and quite recently was complimented at a reception in the Coconut Grove when two of her songs were included in the musical program. Many motion picture stars and film directors were present to compliment her, and her talents received gratifying recognition.

While the song, "Where the Santiago Flows" is dedicated to Santa Ana by its author, and the chorus employs the phrase "O It's Spring in Santa Ana," yet the song actually applies to the county as a whole, and paints a charming picture in which are glimpsed El Toro, Laguna Beach, Modjeska's Canyon, and the sleepy little mission village of San Juan Capistrano.

Other features of tomorrow's convention program will include a forum in the morning hours on "The Modern Clubwoman: Her Responsibility to Home, Community, State and Nation," to be followed by the luncheon hour for which the hostess society will provide the program. In the afternoon Mrs. Virginia J. Esterly, human relations counselor of Scripps College, will be principal speaker.

Preceding the day's business and program features beginning at 10 o'clock will be a meeting of the executive board called for 9:30 a. m.

Witch Message Tells News Of Wedding Plans

A typical Hallowe'en witch, prominent in party decorations last night in the E. W. Greene home, 8008 North Main street, had a special message for the merry guests congregated at the invitation of Miss Muriel Greene, daughter of the home. For after a scavenger hunt and a succession of appropriate games, the witch's flowing draperies were found to conceal a card bearing announcement of the betrothal of Miss Greene and Floyd Epperly.

Additional information was to the effect that the young people had selected their wedding date of January 27, 1937, so what purported to be a party expressive of the season of witches and hobgoblins, proved to be more on the theme of romance.

However, the current holiday was uppermost in all appointments and flowers in bright orange shades blended into a decorative scheme in which many pumpkins, cornstalks and golden ears of corn were effectively used. The table from which refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening, was striking with its trailing festoons of autumn leaves, its golden persimmons, and witch's kettle over realistic blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Greene assisted their daughter in all the evening's hospitalities, and Mr. Epperly was present to receive congratulations of the guests who included Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Rogers, the Misses Gertrude Gross, Naomi Hawkins, Marguerite Haskell, Jean McKamy, Messrs. Norman Fyatt, Bill Greene, Richard McMurray and M. C. Hall.

Both Miss Greene and Mr. Epperly attended Santa Ana junior college after graduation from high school. Mr. Epperly, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Epperly, 1025 West Myrtle street, is with the L. D. Coffing company.

Refreshment was served to precede games. Prizes were won by Mrs. Jacob Bohlander, who scored high in contract; Mrs. H. M. Kinslow, high in auction bridge; Mrs. James Clark, anagrams.

During their meeting Tuesday afternoon in Masonic temple, members of White Shrine Circle made plans for a public card party to be held November 10 in the temple. One o'clock in the afternoon will be the hour for the event, which will begin with the serving of dessert to precede bridge play.

To Honor National Worker

Steadily advancing in charm through a succession of enjoyable afternoons, the tea series with which Democratic women of the county have been expressing interest in national politics, reached a conclusion yesterday afternoon in Ebelle clubhouse where Santa Ana women entertained those from all over the county as a compliment to Lucretia Del Valle Grady.

"Never has the clubhouse looked so beautiful!" exclaimed one delighted guest after another, pausing at the entrance to survey the flowers that glowed in the light of innumerable candles. Santa Ana Democratic women had outdone themselves in the decorative effect, and to continue the appearance of a charming social function, were the loveliest of formal afternoon gowns. Trailing silks and velvets, filmy chiffons, crisp organzas and rich crepes all were seen among the gowns donated to do honor to the occasion, and to Mrs. Del Valle Grady, vice chairman of the Democratic National committee.

In the formal reception line in the clubhouse foyer were Mrs. Frank Harwood, chairman of the committee; Mrs. Ora K. Heine, chairman of the women's division of Orange county; Mrs. Aldric Worswick, precinct chairman, and the wives of various party candidates, Mesdames Harry Sheppard, San Bernardino; Harry Westover, Santa Ana; Clyde Watson, Orange, and James Heffron, Anaheim.

Women from every section of the county had prominence in the receiving line, the list including Mesdames Homer Ames, C. C. Violett, E. E. Smith, Louis Hoskins, M. L. Collins, Millie Cline, Robert Sutherland, Vera Wetlin, L. A. Hungerford, Ben Scott, Clyde Baxter, Joe Peterson, Ada Purpus, George Horner, William Lawver, Myrtle Knouse, Bertha Hillbert, James Sleeper, Horace Head, Della Bishop, Harry Bell, Verna Keller, Harry Rider.

Miss Robbie Anderson, Mesdames M. L. McCracken, William Ayer, Goldie Raynes, Clair Head, Herman Lowe, Olye Board, Talbot Bellefeld, Merrill Gregory, Mary Coons, Esther Smith, L. A. Hogue. While several hundred women from the county as a whole were being greeted it was to strains of music provided by Edward Bear's Senior Violin ensemble. This group played at intervals throughout the afternoon. Mrs. M. E. Geeting as program chairman, had arranged many equally pleasant features including soprano solos by Sallie Coe Mueller; a talk by Mrs. Clyde Watson on her own observations of the federal housing commission's activities; Mrs. Worswick's outline of the precinct leaders and a summary of Democratic candidates.

Mrs. Del Valle Grady's talk was inspirational, and her charming personality won the audience. Other brief talks were made by distinguished women accompanying her, including Mrs. Harry Henley, Eleanor Banning McFarland, Ellen Cardiff, and various members of the Santa Ana hostess group.

Appointments of the tea hour were quite as charming as those of the clubhouse as a whole. Glittering with flowers, silver and candlelight, the table was a foil for the smart gowns worn by those presiding. They were Mesdames Aldric Worswick, Sam Nau, B. E. Tarver, Ernest Crosier Phillips, C. V. Davis, Leonard G. Swales and J. F. Burke. Assisting were Mesdames Maurice Enderle, Clarence Nisson, Perry Davis, Clyde Hill, Milo K. Tedstrom, Wayne Harrison, Ralph Smedley, R. C. Harris, Roy Shafer, James Willis Rice, Paul Witmer and Hugh Plumb.

Mrs. Harry Williams was chairman of the committee planning clubhouse and tea table decorations, and had as her co-workers, Mesdames A. P. Trawick, Glenn S. Warner, Sam Long, Jessie White, R. C. Mixer, D. A. Harwood, Ray Adkinson and W. C. Watkins.

Let's Talk
About Books . .

ETHEL K. LOCKWOOD

CHARMING STORY

Thoroughly enjoyable from beginning to end is the new Joseph C. Lincoln novel, "Great-Aunt Lavinia," released by D. Appleton-Century company. Lavinia Badger, married to the ne'er-do-well Judah at 17, has done a "heap of living" by the time she comes to Wapatomac Harbor to keep house for her nephew, Amaziah Holt, keeper of the Long Cove Point light.

Ethel Holt, Lavinia's grandniece, has been the elder woman's charge since Ethel was two years old, and now, as the story opens, Ethel is 17. Ethel falls in love with the wrong man, and Lavinia is greatly distressed. Judah, long thought dead by Lavinia, really does die, leaving her some mining stock, which she is quite positive is worthless.

"Am" is a blundering, helpless male, with a great tongue for talk, and Lavinia watches over him as if he were a baby. The mining stock proves to have value, and Lavinia finds herself comfortably well off.

Ethel's love affair has died a natural death, and Lavinia has hopes of a match between her niece and Bill Hunter, a new-comer to Wapatomac, who wins Lavinia's admiration and respect and holds it. Scarcely has the announcement of Lavinia's windfall gotten into the newspaper, when Bert Thornlow, Ethel's old sweetheart, turns up, and again sets out to regain his lost territory with Ethel.

The story, simply told, nevertheless contains plenty of drama and suspense. Bits of humor are skilfully injected. Aunt Lavinia's keen wit supplies much of it. Bill, too, is "quick on the trigger" when it comes to words.

Altogether, you get rather more for your money than you usually do in a tale of this type.

NEW BAUM NOVEL

Ever since Vicki Baum wrote "Grand Hotel," her public has been clamoring for something "just as good." This new book, "Sing, Sister, Sing," released by Doubleday Doran, is not another "Grand Hotel," but it is the most entertaining piece of fiction she has turned out since that first sensational novel. Naturally, she is particularly well equipped to tell the story of a German emigrant girl, the lead character in "Sing, Sister, Sing."

Doris Hart has a golden voice, which she brings to America to earn fame and happiness. Doris starts her career in cheap cafes, and winds up in the castles of the idle rich, but not before tragedy has swept her like a tornado, leaving her voice enriched and her soul scarred.

The story starts with Franklin Bryant's pursuit of a statuette that has intrigued the fancy of his wife, and leads into the studio of Nemiroff, the sculptor, whose naked model—Doris—is posing for him. The scene is a shock to the visitor, and will be a shock to many readers. Of course, since the book is written by a "furriner," it would have to have a continental flavor, so we have Doris the mistress of Nemiroff. Then, to make things more difficult for the heroine, she lives in squalor and poverty.

From that start, Vicki weaves an intriguing tale that will please the average reader. But I still think she has only one "Grand Hotel" in her system.

China originally cultivated cotton as a purely decorative plant. It was used in the ceremonial drapings of Buddhist images.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

You may have heard the problem of the squirrel and the hunter but it is always interesting to think about since it has puzzled people for years. A number of requests have come in to print it so here goes:
If a squirrel is on the trunk of a tree and a hunter walks around the tree but the squirrel keeps moving so that the tree trunk is always between him and the hunter, does the hunter walk around the squirrel?
This problem rests on true reasoning and has been used many times in tests of reasoning ability.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S TWIZZLER

There are 145 ways of serving the desserts. There would be four groupings of combinations: 75 where pudding is given the 5 who will eat only that, 50 where one of the pair who will eat either is given pudding, 10 where other of the pair is given pudding, and 10 where both of the pair are given pudding—a total of 145.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

MASTER OF LIGHT AND SHADE

WEALTHY patrons of art have been deceived by forgeries of works of the great Dutch artist, Rembrandt, but only those who have made a thorough study of this master can differentiate his paintings from the false copies. Their clue is the unique manner in which Rembrandt painted his canvases, contrasting his lights and shades so effectively that the persons or objects seem to stand out in bold relief.

Some 600 of Rembrandt's paintings and 300 of his etchings exist. But this master never lived to enjoy the fruits of his fame. Born Rembrandt Harmensz van Rijn, in 1606, he grew in prominence as an artist until 1656. But his extravagant passion for collecting antique sculptures and paintings ruined him financially, and he died, in 1669, in poverty and obscurity.

A copy of perhaps his most famous painting, "The Syndics," and of a Rembrandt self-portrait appear on a Netherlands stamp of 1933.

Real Building Boom In Progress At Laguna Beach

REPORT SHOWS PERMITS NEAR MILLION MARK

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 29.—With building figures approaching the three-quarter million mark for 1936, new construction continues unabated. Approaching completion is the new Seaway market at Coast boulevard and Anita street. Opening of this store is set for Nov. 1st. A block away, excavation work on the supergarage, service station, and Ford salesrooms of the Earl C. Hatheway organization is virtually complete, and foundation work is about to commence. When finished, this building will be the largest of its type in Laguna Beach.

Rumors current about the proposed erection of a theater in the same vicinity, thus far lack official confirmation. Many small homes have been finished, and others are in process of completion. Recent adoption of the new building ordinance, sponsored by the City Planning Commission, is expected to result in a general tightening up of regulations concerning flimsy, jerry-built, or inharmonious structures.

In the residence district, at least, no buildings may be constructed on lots of less than 1900 feet area, without special permit of the city council, approved by the planning commission. No residence may be built, covering more than 50 per cent of its lot, without similar council-commission approval. On each side of every new residence, side yards must be made, aggregating ten per cent of the frontage of the lot on which the house is built, with the proviso that such side yards need not exceed four feet in width. Emergency passage of the ordinance, at the last session of city council, made its provisions immediately operative, and, having secured approval of the Realty Board, it is expected that high building standards will ensue, throughout Laguna Beach.

CLEAR OIL MEN ON CHARGES OF SEWER DAMAGE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 29.—C. W. Camp and Al Craig, owners of the camp and Craig wells on Ocean avenue, were found not guilty of running oil in the city sanitary sewer at a hearing in city court yesterday before City Judge Chris P. Pann. The city witnesses failed to produce sufficient evidence to convict and Judge Pann dismissed the case.

The city complaint charged that Camp and Craig maliciously and wilfully turned oil from their dehydrating tank into the city sewer line. Mr. Camp on the witness stand denied that his tank had a waste outlet into the city sewer. Dick Covington, Bill Day and other employees of the Camp and Craig firm also denied the oil tank was connected with the city sewer.

Harry Yost, who looks after the city's storm sewer into which waste water is drained, told of a crew of city workmen finding a connection from the sanitary sewer running toward the Camp and Craig dehydrating tank. The city was unable to show that the supposed drain line was connected with the big tank. City Engineer Harry Overmyer was also a witness for the city and told of how oil, turned into the city sanitary sewer line was damaging the new septic plant just completed for the city at a cost of $80,000.

The city council at a recent session ordered the city employees to locate where this oil is coming from and to file complaints against oil operators.

There are other operators to be tried in city court soon.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATE AND CAROLINE MEED live on a farm, Meed Meadows, with their lovely, independent, father, MAJOR SAM MEED, and two old Negro servants, ZEKE and ALTHY. KATE and CAROLINE are the daughters of the major. KATE is a beautiful, witty, and somewhat spoiled girl. CAROLINE is a more practical, sensible girl. They are both in love with a young man named JEFFREY HOWARD.

Major Meed loses the farm to JEFFREY HOWARD, a bitter young man, who takes them to his home. Morgan tells Kate they can be married if she will "take her burden home family." Kate finds herself torn between two loves.

Meanwhile, sees Eve Elwell, who frankly makes a play for him. Eve appeals to his ambition and makes him promise to withdraw his offer of marriage to Kate. Morgan and Eve declare their love for each other.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

AFTER kissing Morgan goodnight (it was a dazed, unresponsive kiss because of the conversation they had just had), Kate went into the house and upstairs to bed without waking anyone. It was almost 3 o'clock and she did not want to think. She forced herself to go to sleep, holding her problem in abeyance.

But when she arose in the morning the problem came rolling toward her like a giant bowling ball. She stood quite still and let it strike her, full force. Morgan wanted to marry her only on condition that she definitely rid herself of her grandfather and Caroline and the old Negro servants. Only on condition that her grandfather be put in an institution, that Caroline should become self-supporting in some distant city, that Zeke and Althy and Ruthford should be discharged without sentiment and soon.

Kate's belief in Morgan's wisdom still ached.

At breakfast she could not look at Caroline. She tried, but the rising tears made her lower her eyes hastily to her plate. She thought of Caroline in some distant place, standing behind a counter, wrapping parcels. In some dingy office, typing all day.

"But why not?" Kate asked herself angrily. "Why shouldn't Caroline do such things? Other girls do them. Well, suppose Caroline is a timid little home-body! All the more reason for her to get out and meet the world. . . . Morgan said the farther from home she goes, the better. . . . Louisville won't do. Morgan doesn't want her coming to spend week-ends with us. . . . Why should Caroline come and spend week-ends with us? Plenty of other girls live in hall bedrooms over the week-ends. Why shouldn't Caroline?"

Caroline asked, "Can't you eat your fried apples, honey?"

"No," Kate answered shortly. "I don't think fried apples are necessary for breakfast. They're too heavy. Althy and Zeke are a wasteful pair, if you ask me."

G. G. WOMAN'S CIVIC CLUB HAS ANNUAL GUEST NIGHT

GARDEN GROVE, Oct. 29.—A pleasant affair was given in the Woman's Civic clubhouse this week, when members of the Junior Women's Civic club of Garden Grove held their annual "Guest Night."

Mrs. Helen Humphrey, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Edith Cloyes of Santa Ana, who gave a review of "Gone With the Wind." Mrs. Charles Lake was soloist, accompanied at the piano by Miss Eleanor Wisner. Both entertainers were dressed in old fashioned costumes.

H. B. CLUBS TO OFFER CONCERT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 29.—The Symphony orchestra will dance Cantabile, Tschakowsky; Friday night starting at 8:15 p.m. Everybody is welcome and admission is free. This is a federal music project program under the direction of Leon Eckles, prominent orchestra leader, and will be a delightful music treat, presenting among other features on the program the following classical numbers:

Symphony in E Minor, Dvorak; Hungarian Dances, Brahms; Andante Cantabile, Tschakowsky; Raymond Overture, Thomas.

The concert is being sponsored by the Woman's club, Rotary club and chamber of commerce. Sponsors committee for the Woman's club are Mesdames Willis Warner, May Jackson, Marian Miller, May Benningdorf, A. W. Frost, Jack Robertson, Emil Kettler, R. M. Hagar, A. Henriksen, Walter Dabney.

Sponsors for the chamber of commerce are Mesdames Del Burry, Lawrence Whittaker, S. H. White, W. J. Bristol, J. S. Farquhar, H. M. Hepburn, D. Huff, Marcus Howard, Sam Clapp, Art Wilson.

Guests were Mrs. Edith Cloyes, Mrs. Lula Johnson, Mrs. Leta Sims, Mrs. Sadie Haddock, Mrs. Stella Spencer, Miss Virginia Harper, Miss Betty Vorce, Misses Beatrice and Mary Dolf, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Vivian Smith, Mrs. W. J. Keech, Mrs. Phyllis Kraushaar, Mrs. Dorothy Gedney, Mrs. Yenda Albricht, Mrs. Louise Lake, Mrs. Nell Vaisht, Miss Ethelyn Lee, Miss Blanche Guynn, Miss Myra Lake and Miss Esther Cockerman.

LA HABRANS ATTEND PARLEY

Those of the Queen Esther circle who attended are Barbara Wagner, Mary Hodson, Betty Harpster, Nell Johnson, Verle Jackson, Ruth Anna McBride, Benda Burdick, Rosalie Phillips, Beth Young, Marjorie Vandenberg and Louise Carson. The local group took part in the program.

P-T. A. SOCIAL HELD

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 29.—A Parent-Teacher association social was held at the home of Mrs. D. W. Todd Tuesday afternoon. Four tables of bridge were arranged for entertainment until the serving of refreshments by the hostesses Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Louise Ray. Members made plans for a card party to be given at the golf clubhouse the evening of November 4. Proceeds are to be used toward furnishing the school children with hot lunches. Mrs. Evelina Milner is P-T. A. president.

SALUTE TO Love

Caroline was puzzled. "We country people need a hearty breakfast," she said. "If you work, you have to eat. Zeke and Althy always pick up the wind-fall apples to cook. I don't call that being wasteful."

"Well," Kate remarked sarcastically, "maybe Rutherford B. likes fried apples for breakfast. Maybe they're catering to his appetite."

The strange answer caused Caroline to look at her sister sharply. "Honey, I believe you need—"

"What we need is backbone," broke in Kate. "We ought to be out hunting jobs. That's what we ought to be doing!"

Kate got up and left the room. She felt as if she were on a torture rack, being pulled in two directions. She closed her eyes for a few moments to steel herself more strongly against her family. Then she went up to her grandfather's room. . . .

THE old man was sitting beside the window in his dressing gown, having his breakfast from a tray. "Howdy, baby," he greeted her. "Your old granddad's goin' to be ship-shape before noon."

"Of course, you will," Kate agreed. She refrained from kissing his forehead where his clean pink skin met his silvery hair. "Did it ever occur to you, Granddad, that you'd be lots more comfortable in a modern veterans' home than in this box of a house?"

"I dare say," replied the old gentleman absently. He was buttering his pancakes with happy expectancy. "We'd all be."

"We all aren't eligible," Kate answered impatiently. "Only you. I would you consider applying for admission to such a place, Granddad?"

"Bless my soul," said Major Meed, peering sharply at her over his spectacles. "I wouldn't try to go to Congress."

"Maybe in a year or two," Kate suggested cautiously. "When you're older and need more attention—"

"I reckon I get plenty of attention from those of my own household," said the old man reprovingly. "If the time ever came when I was sick and deserted, and necked, I'd go. But that's not apt to happen to a man like me. Not with two granddaughters of my own and a pair of faithful servants right here under my own roof. Are you feelin' gloomy this fine mornin', honey?"

Kate managed to laugh as she turned and left him.

After that she plunged into work with feverish speed. She went to the garden and picked a half bushel of beans, prepared them and canned them before noon.

She was silent for hours. When Caroline ventured to say approvingly, "Those jars look gorgeous, Kate!" she only shook her head impatiently. "Poor crop of beans, Caroline. The whole garden's a failure. That's the Meeds for you!" Caroline and Althy exchanged startled glances.

AT 5 o'clock Kate dressed, put into a box all the things she had ever received from Morgan Prentiss and went from the house. She got into the sedan and drove the four miles to town by reflex action.

She stopped at the Prentiss house on West Center street and went in. Through the screen door she saw Morgan and Eve Elwell in the hall.

"Oh, hello!" Morgan called out, and opened the door for her. Both he and Eve looked startled. "Eve dropped by to get a book."

To Kate, they seemed remote and strange, like people viewed through a small end of opera glasses. Let Eve hear what she had come to say to Morgan. What matter? . . . "Please take this box," she said to him. "Your fraternity pin's in it. And your letters and your picture. And the bracelet you gave me Christmas. I don't want you or anything that was ever yours."

She saw that they were staring at her strangely, in a vast surprise. She knew that she should go without another word, but her anger would not let her. She said between her teeth, "You're a little man, Morgan Prentiss. A mean, little man with a heart like a mustard seed. You've always been, I suppose, but I never realized it until today."

Eve's cool voice cut the silence. "Morgan was going to tell you tonight, Kate, that he was through—"

"So this makes it just dandy," Morgan added suavely.

"I've no doubt you were," Kate said to him in a calm voice. "But always remember I beat you to it, won't you? It'll keep you humble when you get to the White House."

She went away then, and left them. Through her bruised heart a feeling of relief and escape was pulsing. She only wanted to get home to Granddad and Caroline and tell them how precious they were. She wanted to say to them, "We love each other so! We must stick together, whatever comes!"

At a drug store she bought a sack of tobacco for Zeke and a framed picture of the Dionne babies for Althy. For Rutherford B. she bought a large chocolate bar. "The little fellow's too skinny," she thought ruefully. "We must try to fatten him." Then laughter came to her, deliciously.

GUILLOTINE AND THE SUPREME COURT

It seems rather strange that an official document of a Democratic National Committee should connect guillotine with the new Judicial Temple for the Supreme Court. We quote from their document:

"The original guillotine which executed Louis XVI, loyal friend of the American colonies when they needed a friend, was sold in France on St. Valentine's Day for $167. With American liberties at stake, it might not be inappropriate to buy this guillotine AND SET IT UP IN FRONT OF THE NEW JUDICIAL TEMPLE which frowns across the park that separates it from the Capitol."

This is rather bold and is surely a fair warning of what the country can expect if the present Administration retains control.

CONVICTS' WORK

A suggestion for prison reform made by one of the nation's outstanding prison officials seems to have considerable merit.

Sanford Bates, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, believes the work of rehabilitating criminals would be aided if the convicts were assigned to work for which they were best fitted and which would be of benefit to them.

It seems logical that such a practice would be helpful in reclaiming law-breakers for society. If his tasks while "in stir" help prevent a man from growing rusty at the line of work he knows best, he is more likely, after being freed, to get a job speedily and hold it, and thus keep out of mischief.

On the other hand, if he has fallen behind the parade of men in his vocation he may become discouraged and take the easy, evil way out.

WHEN THE WORKERS REALIZE

It is interesting to note that in a small eastern city, a small manufacturer posted notices to the effect that beginning January 1, there would be deductions made from the payrolls of the employees for the Social Security Act passed under the present administration.

Whether it was premeditated or not, the next day a poll was taken of the plant as to how the voters stood. The results were 50 for Landon and 3 for Roosevelt.

When the workers come to realize that the government is going to take from their pay envelopes, beginning next year, to buy government bonds for the politicians to squander, they then begin to realize who is to pay for the government extravagance.

The vote of this small shop in a Democratic city is significant. It is a mighty good thing for Roosevelt that the election is in November instead of next January after every worker begins to realize what is happening to him.

ROOSEVELT'S AMBITIONS

With James Roosevelt having said that if his father were elected and if it were unconstitutional to put into effect the policies of the NRA, the President would go to the people and ask for an amendment giving him authority to do so, it is interesting to recall the address made by Roosevelt on September 10 in Charlotte, N. C. In this speech, the President said:

"Most thinking people believe that the National Recovery Act, during its short term of life, accomplished as much for the restoration of prosperity through the establishment of the minimum wage, the shortening of hours and the elimination of child labor, as any law put on the statute books of the federal government in the past century."

This clearly shows that the President believes in the principle of the NRA; that he believes we can produce more by limiting the right of people to work as many hours as they desire to work. He believes that wealth can be created by statutes by limiting production. It certainly confirms the statement made by his son.

This should be a warning to every man who believes that he cannot have more by producing less. If Roosevelt is elected, he will certainly try to carry out the policies of the NRA.

INSURANCE ON POLICEMEN AND FIREMEN

The Register does not believe the government should go into any private business that private enterprise will take care of. There is one thing we do think the citizens of Santa Ana should do.

When the policemen or firemen are defending our lives or our property, they are running the risk of their lives. No private insurance company will write insurance on these men, we are informed, without increasing the rate by several years.

With the public coming to have less and less respect for human rights in property, our policemen or firemen will be called upon in the future to perform a very much greater and dangerous service for our citizens than ever before.

It seems to us that it would be only fair for the City of Santa Ana to pay the premiums protecting the lives of our policemen and firemen when they are in service. The gangsters who are willing to take the lives of our policemen are able to get insurance without a penalty but our policemen are obliged to pay a higher rate. This is not fair and it is one of the things the government owes men who risk their lives in doing their duty.

It would be much better for the city to use the insurance money it may have available in paying for protection of the lives of policemen and firemen than to use the same available insurance money to pay one-half of the insurance cost of employees who do not take risks in line of duty.

GROWING WITH CITY

Our friendly congratulations are extended today to an old friend in new guise. We might almost say to an old friend in new clothes, carefully fitted by Vandermaats Inc. For it is to this long-established business house of the city, comfortably settled in a new branch location, that we offer greeting.

Thirty-odd years ago when Santa Ana was little more than another prosperous western town, Asa Vandermaast arrived from Iowa and opened his Cash Clothing Business here. As Santa Ana grew and developed, his store kept pace with the progress. Asa Vandermaast has now relinquished control of the business he founded, but not to newcomers. Instead he trained his sons that they might take over his responsibilities when he was ready to enjoy the fruits of a lifetime of endeavor and high business probity. Associated with the elder son, Walter Vandermaast, in management and control of the store is Carl Stein, who has been connected with Vandermaasts for a number of years, and a member of the firm since 1929.

For many weeks past the southeast corner of Fourth and Sycamore streets has been the scene of remodeling activities as Vandermaasts Inc. prepared to take possession of its new branch store. These operations are now completed, and tonight the business house will welcome its patrons and friends to a store location of beauty and quiet good taste.

Undoubtedly flowers will brighten the scene, flowers from interested fellow merchants, from service clubs, civic organizations and personal friends. But choicest than the most beautiful of these will be the flowers of personal congratulations which the firm may treasure in memory. To these, The Register wishes to add "Congratulations and good wishes, Vandermaasts Inc. May you live long and prosper."

MORE WEALTH PER WORKER

The Register has been preaching in season and out that the only real way of raising the wages of all the people is to have more capital per worker.

Under the heading of "Jobs and Redistributing Wealth", Frank A. Garbutt, writer for the Los Angeles Times, has the following to say:

"Redistributing wealth by the methods inaugurated by President Roosevelt is a delusion and a snare—a snare for unthinking voters who would like to have a share of what some one else now has.

The wealth taken away from the rich in excessive income taxes; from the heirs of the helpless dead by confiscatory inheritance taxes, and from corporations by surplus and other onerous taxes upon industry was practically all invested in business. In other words, this wealth provided jobs. When the government confiscates this wealth, it is not distributed to those who do not have any. It is not invested to create new jobs for those thrown out of employment. Its confiscation destroys existing jobs and does not create new ones except for political hangers-on.

The role is no substitute for jobs nor can it ever be. It requires an investment of from $3000 to $10,000 to create a permanent worthwhile job. It would require approximately $500,000,000 of invested capital to create permanent worthwhile jobs for every worker. Double that amount would create still better jobs.

The wealth of those without money must be increased, but this can only be accomplished by creating better jobs for all. There is not enough wealth to redistribute. It must be created."

WHO PAYS THE TAXES?

Walter Lippmann, in commenting on Roosevelt's speech at Worcester, Mass., has some very interesting comments to make as to whether the impression left by Roosevelt is correct that the taxes would be largely paid by people with large incomes. Lippmann says:

"Let us take a recent Treasury statement. I am using one for the close of business on October 19. It shows that in this fiscal year, that is since July 1, the income tax, the only direct tax which falls principally on the well-to-do and the rich, produced less than 30 per cent of the revenues. The rest came from hidden taxes on consumption, but that does not really tell the story for much more has been spent than has been received. Of the expenditures, the income tax produced about 18 per cent. But even that does not tell the true story. For about half of the income tax revenue is from corporations, that is to say, it is hidden from the consciousness of the taxpayer and it is not graduated according to his ability to pay. So the substantial truth of the matter is that less than 10 per cent of the expenditures of the government are obtained today by a direct, visible tax on incomes according to ability to pay."

"All the rest is collected indirectly without regard to ability to pay or it is borrowed. These are the figures that really tell the story. And the story is that Congress is voting these vast sums under a system which keeps the average man from realizing the cost. He pays the cost. But he does not know he is paying it. The taxes are hidden and invisible. Because the taxes are hidden, he thinks that the bills are being paid by the 1 per cent who have incomes over $26,000. Now a system of finance in which a government spends about $8,000,000,000 a year and raises less than 10 per cent of the cost by direct and visible taxes is bound to make for financial irresponsibility. The money can be voted and spent without seeming to cost the mass of voters anything. It is a system which encourages every pressure group to approach the Treasury. For since there appears to be an inexhaustible funds which can be raised without seeming to cost the voters any money, what incentive is there for the Congressmen to refuse any demands?"

But the direct tax on the pay envelope is the real sensation. Heretofore, only about 5,000,000 persons have ever paid a direct tax on incomes to the federal government. Now, 26,000,000 are going to pay a direct tax on their pay envelope beginning next January. From a bookkeeping point of view—keeping track of it all—the job is colossal. Already the bureaucracy in the national capital is overflowing and is seeking office space in Baltimore. But the educational task—selling the idea to the people—is even greater. Can the benefits, for instance, that come to a person at 65 be sold to the average person of 25 or 30 years of age now? Will not that person prefer to make his or her own arrangements to buy social security through life insurance and to pay for it annually, not weekly, if desired? Will the workers accept a compulsory plan or demand of congress a repeal?

Employers have begun to notify their employees that, in less than

The Daily Eye-Opener In Europe

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936)

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 29.—I have now visited four cities in part of what is known as "up-state" New York—Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany—and have encountered almost everywhere what seems to me to be the sensation of this campaign. It is an eleven-hour shift to Landon as a protest by laboring men who are discovering what the New Deal means to them.

In terms of the new payroll tax. All the radio speeches and the campaign have been academic thus far because of a decided leantage of the workers toward the New Deal. Their resentment, however, has now approached the point of indignation as they discover the mammoth payroll tax. The New Deal, on the other hand, is charging that employers are not telling all of the story, namely that the payroll tax has to be paid by the employer as well as the employee.

This has only served, however, to make matters worse when the workers find out all the facts. For when the laboring men learn that, while the employee only pays one per cent a year, the employer has to pay two per cent next year, and four per cent the next, they recognize that such a burden cannot be imposed without being passed on in higher prices on food and other costs of living, or that it cannot be carried and yet have increases in wages also granted.

"There goes my raise," said one workman, as he found out what the employer was up against for the next three years. Incidentally, workers and employers will have to pay for so-called "social security" taxes about $1,120,000,000 next year, and this is more than was collected in 1929 from all income tax collections from individuals in the country. It amounts also to nearly the amount that was paid in corporation taxes alone in 1929, and it greatly exceeds what was paid last year in corporation taxes. The new taxes eventually, under the present plan, will take $3,000,000,000 a year out of industry in addition to all other taxes.

But the direct tax on the pay envelope is the real sensation. Heretofore, only about 5,000,000 persons have ever paid a direct tax on incomes to the federal government. Now, 26,000,000 are going to pay a direct tax on their pay envelope beginning next January. From a bookkeeping point of view—keeping track of it all—the job is colossal. Already the bureaucracy in the national capital is overflowing and is seeking office space in Baltimore. But the educational task—selling the idea to the people—is even greater.

Can the benefits, for instance, that come to a person at 65 be sold to the average person of 25 or 30 years of age now? Will not that person prefer to make his or her own arrangements to buy social security through life insurance and to pay for it annually, not weekly, if desired? Will the workers accept a compulsory plan or demand of congress a repeal?

Employers have begun to notify their employees that, in less than 90 days, a payroll tax goes into effect. Workmen are beginning to ask questions. Many cannot be answered without a lawyer. Here are some of the queries:

"What right has the federal government to break into the pay envelope of the working man?"

My own answer is that it has no right. That the supreme court of the United States, in the famous railway pension case in 1935, that taxes levied on one group for the benefit of another are unconstitutional. In this instance, the employer is taxed, not for the support of the expenses of the general government, but for pensions and unemployment insurance—benefits to be bestowed on one group at the expense of another group.

"Why does the Roosevelt administration put into effect an unconstitutional law in the face of that decision?"

My answer to this is that the Roosevelt regime does not regard the decisions of the supreme court in one case as binding on it in another.

"Is there no way the tax can be held up till the constitutional question in the payroll tax law is decided?"

There is if the federal courts will grant injunctions next January against collection of this tax, just as they did against the collection of the processing tax, which was later held unconstitutional.

I mention the above questions as typical because I have been informed that the workers are asking them. They might ask many more. One, for instance, that comes to mind is, why, if the federal government can tax the payroll today for one purpose, can't it tax the payroll tomorrow for something else? Once concede the validity of the payroll tax and congress then has a wide grant of power to levy taxes on payrolls for any purpose that it conceives to be for the "general welfare."

There are a lot of pamphlets being circulated about the payroll tax. Some employers are obviously trying to influence votes by it because they refer in their notices to "New Deal" legislation and ask the workmen to decide on November 3 what they want to do about it. They tell them frankly that Governor Landon is pledged to repeal the law. There may or may not be anything wrong in laying one's views before employees. The Roosevelt administration not only lays its political views before federal employees, but collects money from them for campaign purposes.

But the fairest notice to employees which I have seen is that which does not mention politics at all and clearly shows that the employer has to pay a tax on the payroll too.

It is wholly within the right of the employers to send out such a notice, and many of them consider it a duty to do so because, within a few weeks, the workers' budgets will have to be adjusted anyway to take care of the payroll deduction. Here is the text of such a notice sent out by one company:

"To employees:
"One per cent (1%) will be withheld from your salary commencing January 1, 1937, in compliance with the federal social security law passed by congress of the United States and approved by President Roosevelt August 14, 1935.

"Your check or your pay envelope will be short 1 per cent each week during 1937 unless you are 65 years of age or older. If your salary is more than $3,000 a year, deductions will cease after 1 per cent has been collected from $3,000. This money is to be turned over to the federal government together with a similar amount paid by the employer to be applied in accordance with the provisions of the social security law applicable to old age pensions.

"The 1 per cent deduction applies to the years, 1937, 1938 and 1939. In 1940 it is increased to 1 1/2 per cent of your salary and in 1943 to 2 per cent. In 1946 it increases to 2 1/2 per cent and in 1949 to 3 per cent. In each instance the employer must pay a similar amount.

"The payment of old age pensions begins in 1942."

The extent of the effect of the payroll tax controversy can hardly be estimated. It may upset all polls of votes that have been made. It may assure New York state for Landon and some of the middle western states as well. For it tells, in a single concrete measure, the whole philosophy of New Deal policy of experimentation in disregard of constitutional safeguards.

Even the "New York Times," which announced recently its support of President Roosevelt for reelection, had this to say editorially yesterday of the social security payroll tax:

"Perhaps its greatest single defect and danger is the provision it makes for building up a colossal 'reserve' fund which is expected ultimately to reach $50,000,000,000—far in excess of the present total national debt. Experts believe a reserve of this sort is potentially dangerous and wholly unnecessary."

"Another defect of the law in the opinion of some authorities is the postponement of benefit payments. After five years, for example, it will be taking in each year sixteen times as much as it is paying out. At the end of ten years, it will be taking in five times as much as it is paying out. This suggests that the workers will in time resent having these taxes deducted from their income while they see so little being paid out and a huge and untouched 'reserve fund' growing constantly larger."

But more important still, in my opinion, is what kind of investments will the federal government make with its "reserve fund"? It will be compelled by law to invest in government bonds, which means that the creation of national debt or "public works" and "bonding" will be constantly encouraged till the point where the citizen will wonder whether the "reserve fund" can ever be paid off except by printing press money and an inflation that will make the proceeds buy very little. For high prices result when too much public debt is created and when currency becomes less and less valuable in terms of goods.

The payroll tax controversy has come late. The law was passed in August, 1935. The Republicans have been asleep at the switch. They had the ingredients of a first class issue and never used it. The employers facing the payroll cut reaction have hoped the protests could be postponed. But the cat is out of the bag now, and irrespective of who is elected next week, the issue has come to the forefront of attention as the most pressing problem that the congress elected next week will have to decide in January, 1937.

A BAD START

The first grade teacher was troubled. "There is something the matter with Mitchell. His mother entered him last month, so he could be in school with his brother. At first he seemed to like it, but now he is afraid. He cries most of the time, and I can't get a bit of work out of him to save my life. He is just a baby."

"How old is he?"

"Card says he is just one month short of six. His brother is only a couple of months over six. Couldn't be, could it? I'm asking his mother to see me this afternoon when she comes for him. There is something the matter."

"Yes," said mother, cheerfully, "he is only four, but I wanted him to be ready for what was ahead of him, so I put him in school now. You see I told him that he need not study; just listen, do what he could and let the rest go. Of course the others can do more, but that need not worry him."

"I believe in teaching children to stand on their own feet. Never mind what the others say. Today when he came into the yard one of them said to the other so he could hear, 'Isn't he the dumb one?' He began to cry and said, 'They do that all the time. I don't want to come here any more.'

"That's not the way he ought to behave. I want him to face whatever comes and hold his own. That's why I brought him early to school. So he could be prepared for what is to come."

So one little boy got a bad start in school. He was asked to face a situation far beyond his ability to cope with, and to do work far beyond what his stage of development permitted. He lived under a cloud of failure. His health was shaken and his belief in himself shocked severely. Maybe time will cure the hurt. I hope so, but time will have plenty to do.

It is unwise to try to push a child beyond the bounds that nature set for his protection. We are certain to make serious mistakes when we try that. Nature sets the pattern of each child's growth within himself. We can follow along to help him, but we must not try to set a pattern of our own instead.

There is a time when a child learns language easily and quickly; when he learns to read without much effort; when he learns to count and measure with pleasure in the doing; when he learns to tell a story and laugh at its humor. But those times are set in the child's pattern, hidden from our eyes until they manifest themselves in the child's action. Then we take our cue and go to work. But if we are honorable teachers we do not try to force that day by as much as one minute.

There is no hurry about training a child. He has a lifetime allotted him. We do our part well if we wait upon his signals and attend when he calls. Pushing, making time by robbing infancy, results in disaster. Wait a little and follow the child, and you will arrive in good time and in better heart.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Little Benny's
Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Today is my sister Gladis's birthday, and I was eating breakfast and ma said, Benny, I want you to hurry and get through so you can leave this box of maraskeeno chocklits at Gladis's house on your way to school.

Maraskeeno chocklits being Gladis's favorite kind of candy and mine too, only it wasn't my birthday, and I took the box around to Gladis's house, being a 2 pound box all rapped in white paper and blue ribbon, saying, Merry birthday Gladis, look what ma sent you. Open it and see what's in it, I said.

I know without looking, it's maraskeeno chocklits, goody goody hurray for me, Gladis said. And she layed the box on the piano and I stood there trying to think of a good thing to say next, and Gladis said, You're going to be late for school, aren't you?

Who me? I should say not. I'm one of the fastest runners you ever heard of. All I got to do is give a imitation of Jessy Owens and I'll be in school ahead of half the fellows that started wawking 15 minutes ago. Only I'm not so sure about this morning because I'm kind of weak on account of not having ate much breakfast because I wanted to have time to bring you that box of maraskeeno chocklits, I said.

Being a hint for her to give me at least one to add to my strength and Gladis said, Well, that's too bad, how would you like a nice bowl of fluffed oatsies? And I said, O, no thanks, it would be too much trouble for you to go out in the kitchen and everything. If it happened to be rite here it might be different, I said.

The battleship Oregon, made famous by her trip around the Horn in the Spanish-American war, arrived yesterday in San Diego, completing her first voyage since she was re-built in the north. She will remain in San Diego bay with other warcraft until mobilization of the Pacific fleet at San Pedro, Tuesday, October 31.

In the first of the bulletins to be issued among teachers and school trustees of the county, County Superintendent R. P. Mitchell has called a convention of school trustees for Wednesday, December 20, at 9:30 a. m. in Santa Ana high school. The date corresponds with the third day of the county teachers' institute.

Samuel Plestini of Newport Beach, one of the Southland's oldest residents, is dangerously ill at his home in the beach city. "Old Sam" as he is known to everyone, is a Slavonian who lived with the Indian, Joe Baracca, at the beach before the existence of Newport Beach as a town. Since advancing age made it difficult for him to make a living at fishing and renting boats, he has been cared for by Ned Kovachik, known generally as "Big Ned". Plestini can neither read nor write, but he votes regularly, always the straight Democratic ticket.

PARAGRAPHS

O, Social Justice, what hypocritical hoosy is written and spoken in thy name. And yet the monoxide in city streets isn't often as dangerous as the peroxides.

Political version: Our candidate, may he ever be right; but, right or wrong, our candidate.

A land of opportunity is one where a man is called great while his old neighbors wonder how he gets by.

You can't expect all men to have the same principles. The idea that takes one man's shirt, betters another's bread.

THE FINAL TEST OF GOOD MANNERS IS THE WAY HE EATS WHEN THERE IS NOBODY AROUND TO WATCH HIM.

Charm is the subtle art of acting as though you meant: "How wonderful you are!"

Fable: Once upon a time there was a man whose vote was changed by a candidate's speech.

Radical: A fellow in overalls who would be called a Liberal if he had a college education.

AMERICANISM: (1) "I don't think much of that fellow's performance." (2) "You say he gets five thousand a week? Wonderful genius, isn't he?"

Footish ancients thought there was nothing on the other side of the earth; moderns get the same idea about politics.

Why doesn't man believe himself rich? He seems able to believe anything else that pleases him.

Doubtless Nature also was trying to prevent war by making it too awful when she developed the cootie.

FABLE: ONCE A PROSPEROUS PARENT KNEW THAT CODDING WOULD RUIN HIS KID, SO HE DID NONE OF IT.

One of the scribes calls the campaign a drama, but in a drama it's the plot that thickens instead of the dirt.

Among the things that make you yearn to visit relatives is having your cook quit.

Old Dad might get flutery over buying a lot of new Fall clothes, too. How do you know he wouldn't when he's never tried it?

The Pioneer indicated success by a new notch on his gun. The effete modern does it by a new dress on his wife.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "I'M PRETTY WILD MYSELF," SAID THE YOUTH, "SO I HOPE TO MARRY A GIRL OF THE SAME KIND."
